Official D.C. Thinking Split on Senior Citizen Complex

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Since it was first brought up last month, a proposed 112-unit senior citizens complex to be built between First and Second Avenues in Daly City has divided official thinking in the city.

The Planning Commission passed the issue by a 3-2 vote following a lengthy meeting that went far into the night.

Even before its scheduled presentation next week to a study session of the city council some members are voicing skepticism.

Proposed by Bernard Hagan Construction Company, the four story $1.3 million senior citizens complex, to be located in an area already devoted to apartments, has been labeled by some as a "suede shoe operation."

Supporters of the complex, and Hagan himself, deny this title.

They point to other complexes — built by Hagan and in operation in Oakland — as examples of the success of such plans.

But the city fears the government-subsidized housing will be built to sub-standard specifications in order to make it pay.

City Planner John Walker said there is little doubt the structure will not only meet the city's building codes but will surpass them.

This same feeling was voiced by W. Glenn Weman, executive director of the Housing Authority of San Mateo County.

"This is what is known as an 'elderly turnkey leasing' program," Weman explained.

Because of the federal government's involvement in the program it must meet rigid specifications because it is dealing with the elderly, Weman said.

Hagan has applied for a variance to build the complex with less than required parking.

Using some of the land as greenery and open space, the promoter of the plan notes this could be later torn out if vehicular traffic dictated the need for more parking.

Some city officials contend parking is insufficient and the variance should not be granted.

A recent statewide survey indicates such complexes have a 40 per cent parking factor, not the usual 80-100 per cent experienced where younger persons reside, Weman said.

Weman and Walker both agree that the parking matter could be resolved by making construction of additional parking conditional to the term of the contract regardless if Hagan owns and operates the facility or another agent takes over.

The building is set back some 19 feet from the roadway, unlike other multiple dwellings built in the area which come almost to the sidewalk.

By converting the green belt around the complex another 20 parking spaces could be added, the plan indicates.

"Until there is a demonstrated need for more spaces, I would recommend the greenery," Walker said.

There is mounting pressure from one of the state's fastest growing minority groups—the aged.

With advances in medical treatment, statistics indicate today's senior citizens live longer.

Weman points out that well-built housing facilities are desperately needed.

He thinks such housing will not only give senior citizens a sense of individual responsibility, but will save many marriages.

Another concern of opponents is that it will be "sub-standard

Pistol Misfires

Mother and Daughter Held; Assault Charged

A mother and daughter have both been charged with assault with intent to commit murder by South San Francisco police.

The pair allegedly each aimed a pistol at a female companion of the father.

Police booked Yvonne Rita Case, 49, of 1441 Beach Park Blvd., Foster City, and her daughter Carmen Joyce Beacom, 28, of 1024 Springfield Drive, San Carlos.

According to police, they received a report at approximately 4:50 p.m. on Monday of a woman brandishing a gun at the Holiday Inn, 245 South Airport Boulevard.

Police said John R. Case, 39, of the Foster City address, and Carolyn Ann Evans, 32, of San Rafael, were sitting together when the wife and daughter came in and found them.

At this point, police said, Mrs. Case pulled a .22 automatic pistol, pointed it at Miss Evans and pulled the trigger. It did not go off. Police said they are now checking the weapons to see whether they are in working condition.

Police learned that the husband took the gun away from the woman and placed it in the purse of his female companion. At this point, the daughter came up with a snub-nose .38 caliber pistol and pointed it at the Evans woman. Police said Case again retrieved the weapon, placing it, too, in the purse with the first gun.

The two women turned and left. They were subsequently arrested.

Police said Mrs. Case surrendered herself at the polic station. Her daughter was arrested in her San Carlos home.

Both women posted a $1250 bail, set by Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn. "They are scheduled" to appear for arraignment in South San Francisco Municipal Court August 9.

Sneath Lane Bridge Will Open Today

The new Sneath Lane Freeway 280 overpass was expected to be open before today's commuter rush, the State Division of Highways reported.

The three-way traffic signals and cross traffic will be eliminated with the $260,000 four lane vridge, which stretches 36 feet with two 105-foot clear spans.

Right turns will remain, and drivers who need to go left will turn right onto the half-cloverleaf pattern.

The intersection has seen a sequence of death and injury since its opening in 1952.

Exit ramps from Junipero Serra Freeway to the new bridge will be available for traffic to go to Tanforan Park or uphill on Sneath. Entrance ramps to Serra will be available from either side of the new bridge.

The next phase of the current project will be the completion of project will b the completion of connections to the new San Bruno Avenue alignment, plus its two frontage roads (on each side of the freeway) and ramps.

The present road, which crosses Junipero Serra (Freeway 280) will be torn up, since San Bruno Avenue will cross under the freeway.

The west side frontage road is nearly finished. A mid-September opening of the realignment is expected.

Planner Criticized

S.S.F. Urban Design Proposal Held Up

By BOB PETERSON

South San Francisco City Planner Dan Pass' proposal to give planning commissioners urban design jurisdiction was tabled for two months Monday night by the commissioners.

In addition, Pass came under criticism from members of the audience, charging him with an attempt to have sole control of city growth.

Contractor Arthur "Buzz" Haskins, said, "I never heard of anyone giving a blank check without justification. I don't feel Dan Pass should (all by himself) design our city."

Haskins was inferring that Pass, as advisor to the planning commission was makinga proposal, which if approved by the commissioners would put the control of the future design of the city in his lap.

Pass, being highly ecologically planning minded, has at times succeeded in curtailing excessive over-development of various areas of the city.

The city planner responded that he as well as the planning commission operates under specific state requirements, guidelines he and the commissioners simply follow.

He said the proposal was "an extension of the planning process into new horizons. It doesn't mean the commission will draw up plans. It means they will merely guide development to make sure each use fits into a concept of long-range urban growth."

Under his proposal, the commissioners would review plans submitted for aesthetic control of such things as benches on city streets, small parks or fountains.

"We now have school, state and federal projects carried on in the city that are not required to come before this commission," said Pass.

A. C. Chevalier, of 2600 Leix Way, said, "I see this as having the planning commission going into the professional design business. I don't think you belong there."

Chevalier softened his criti-

Rec Facilities on Coast Urged

Miss Patricia Bisio of Daly City asked this week that Pacifica consider creation of recreational facilities for handicapped children.

Handicapped herself, the slightly built Miss Bisio in a letter to the Pacifica City Council said that there are 203 such children in the coastside community.

Laguna Salada School District Supt. James Brien, at Monday's joint school district-city council meeting that the LSSD was attempting to initiate educational programs for the handicapped.

An interest in the recreational aspect was indicated by a Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department representative.

Till Theft Leads to Arrest of 2

Two young men were arrested in Daly City Monday after a till tap theft in Burlingame but someone with a taste for booze escaped after burglarizing a South San Francisco bar, according to the North County police agencies.

'Richard L. Geurts, 21, and Donald V. Brosio, 22, were booked on suspicion of driving a stolen vehicle and burglary in Daly City, and with theft in Burlingame.

The arrest came a few minutes after Richard Airey, the attendant at Burlingame Chevron station, 1501 El Camino Real, told police someone had taken his cash drawer, with $25 to $35 in it.

Airey and another witness said the theft occured when a blue van was driven into the station and an occupant got out to ask about a local address.

When he returned to the pump area from checking a map, Airey said, he found the cash drawer missing and the van gone.

Daly City police said they arrested the two when they discovered that the van was apparently stolen and that one of them possessed narcotics paraphernalia.

Burglars struck Johnny's Club, 107 Grand Avenue, South San Francisco, escaping with approximately $250 in cash and a wide selection of alcoholic beverages.

Police said employe Carrol L. Clay reported the burglary when he went to the club to get ice for another establishment.

DC Forum on JESD Librarian, Nurse Cutbacks

A group of parents and teachers in Daly City who want reinstatement of Jefferson Elementary School District nurses and librarians who were axed for economy reasons have called a forum for 7:30 p.m., August 3.

The session, to discuss the cutbacks, will be held at the Lincoln Clubhouse at Acton and Brunswick Streets, Daly City.

Turfing and Irrigation Bid Accepted

A Burlingame firm, Munkdale Bros., Inc., has won the contract for turfing of portions of four Pacifica schoolyards and installation of sprinkler systems.

The Laguna Salada School District board of trustees and the Pacifica City Council accepted the company's bid of $48,150 in separate actions during a joint meeting on Monday.

The turfing and sprinkler project is part of a $66,066 LSSD-municipal beautification and improvement program, which also will provide for creation of four new ballfields—at Westview, Pacifica Manor, Sharp Park and Cabrillo elementary schools.

District Supt. James Brien a total of five acres of ballfield backstops, dugouts and infields will be built and some play equipment will be added, Brien said.

The city and Laguna Salada will pay $17,000 each for the improvement project, and the U.S. Housing and Urban Development agency will fund the remainder, about $32,000.

Completion of the project by October is anticipated, and if that schedule is maintained disruption to classes should be minimal, Brian said.

San Bruno Committees

Plumbing and Electrical Code Proposals Will Be Studied

Two city council-appointed committees will review proposed new plumbing and electrical codes for San Bruno.

The decision to study codes which would put into the municipal code the nationally-recognize versions of the Uniform Building and Plumbing and National Electrical codes came after opposition was expressed by members of the audience Monday.

San Bruno Building Inspector Melvin Bredlow apparently initiated the proposals.

Bredlow said that much of the high cost of building homes had been attributed, in many magazine and news articles, to restrictive building codes, that are different in each community.

Various state and federal agencies had been trying to get local communities to adopt such uniform codes for many years, he said, with Housing and Urban Development threatening to cut off federal aid to communitites with restrictive building codes.

Any amendments to the Uniform Code—and he cited two amendments to the proposed local electrical code—must be completely justified before HUD, he said.

Leading the attack on the proposed building code was T. M. Hunting of the Plumbers Union, who received several unexpected allies from members of the audience.

One such ally was on the council.

"Those who can build their own homes have little problem," declared Mrs. Margare Kozkowski, "but most of us in San Bruno live in tract homes . . . and we have a mess of trouble!"

People in her neighborhood must start rebuilding their homes as soon as they move in, she alleged, "but I feel sorry for one neighbor who cannot even change a washer!"

Councilmen appointed a special committee composed of Tony Governale, Acting City Mgr. Leo Van Dusen, Bredlow and Hunting to investigate the problem and return with a report. Bredlow also may call in outside help.

The proposed electrical code seemed headed for just as much controversy as the plumbing code, and it also was referred to committee for study.

Under this proposal, metal raceways would be required for commercial wiring, but all forms of conduit, including the controversial Romex wiring, would be permitted in residential construction.

"Any type of wiring you want," declared Bredlow.

A number of representatives of the electrical industry came prepared to speak on this proposal, but the council decided to hold the matter over until after the coming conventions of the electrical and plumbing unions.

Bredlow said that since many comminitites nationwide are using Romex, he would be unable to justify its ban before HUD and other agencies. Romex is bound in layers of insulation, but not metal covered.

Hunting proposed six technical amendments to the proposed code, which he said were necessary to preserve high standplumbing.

Among residents who objected to loosening restrictions were Orville Wykoff of Trenton Drive, Mike Kaiser of 529 6th Avenue and Ellie Larson of Hawthorne Ave.

Concern Expressed for Gellert Extension Future

Concern for future extension of Gellert Boulevard in the Westborough section of South San Francisco tied up for two weeks approval of the final map for Westborough West Park unit 3E.

Developer Henry L. Richman said he objected to the delay but would go along with it for the sake of trying to clarify what City Engineer Lou Goss considers a problem.

The problem in the eyes of the engineering department is that if the city doesn't set policy to insure future development there may be problems later of obtaining extension of the street.

As it stands now street extension would not only be over land of The J. H. Snyder Company development, but also would stretch over undeveloped acreage owned bv Michael Callan.

The only solution, according to City Planner Dan Pass, is to have Richman and Callan get together and agree to extend the street. However since it is not known when, nor what type, development will be on the Callan property agreement with Callan at this time is remote.

Richman said the city already holds trust deeds for improvement of the roadway.

That's Right, Rustling in D.C.

The first case of rustling in over a decade was reported to Daly City police Monday.

Someone made off with Emil Sekol's heifer cow corraled behind the Cow Palace off Geneva Avenue.

Police found a trail of blood leading from the corral on Carter Street to a road.

They think the cow was first shot to death and the carcass carted off. The area is a lonely open area on the slopes of San Bruno Mountain.

State Allocates More Than Expected for Mental Health

The state has allocated about $400,000 more than local officials had hoped for to support the county's mental health program, the Board of Supervisors was told Tuesday.

Dr. George Pickett, county health and welfare director, said the allocation, plus another $500,000 expected still to come, will give the county more than the minimum we felt we had to have to support a reduced mental health program.

Without the money, drastic cuts in mental health services would have been required.

Dr. Pickett said he felt the improved financial picture will mean that no employes of the mental health division will actually be laid off. The staff is being reduced by some 22 positions but Dr. Pickett said he felt that all of those persons would be either placed in other vacant county positions or would find employment elsewhere.

For a number of years costs of basic county mental health programs have been paid 90 per cent with state money and 10 per cent with county funds. Reductions in the San Mateo County program were ordered when the state failed to allocate sufficient money for approved programs.

At the time the 1971-72 county budget was adopted last month the board added another $175,000 to the county appropriation to maintain it at the 1970-71 level.

Mental health programs were given priorities, at the top of which were the four regional centers, central support facilities at Chope Community Hospital, and other programs that have the effect of keepinglocal residents out of state hospitals. It was hoped that the state would allocate an additional $200,000 for San Mateo County and allow the county an additional $500,000 credit for reduced use of state hospitals, to finance the priority programs.

Dr. Pickett said he has been informed by the Department of Mental Hygiene that the county's allocation for local program is $4,040,212, which totals $613,000 more than the earlier figure. He said the additional $500,000 has been approved, contingent upon the county submitthow it intends to reduce dependency upon state hospitals.

Dr. Pickett gave credit to State Senator Arlen Oregorio for helping secure the additional money.

Youth Held in Gun Death at Pacifica

A 15-year-old boy will appear in Juvenile Court on an involuntary manslaughter charge August 16, in connection with the shotgun death on July 20 of another youth in Pacifica.

He is Ralph Patterson of 1396 Desolo Avenue, who is in his parents' custody after a detention hearing on Friday.

Richard R. Chantry, 14, of 716 Arguello Boulevard, Pacifica, was shot in the head with a 12 gauge shotgun while visiting at 1396 DeSolo Avenue, authorities said.

Two other juveniles were at the scene of the 8:30 p.m. shooting.

The other youth, also 15, was released to his parents' custody without charge. His name was not given by police.

Pacifica Police Chief Mel Nelson said the three youths were in a rear bedroom at the time of the shooting.

They had watched at least one show on television before getting some watermelon and going into the bedroom. Each had handled the shotgun before it discharged while Patterson was holding it, Chief Nelson said.

He said there was no evidence of violence nor indication of an argument. Patterson's mother was in the kichen and his father was watching TV, Nelson said.

Patterson's brother, Sp-4 George Patterson, was killed in action last year in Vietnam. The Pattersons received his Bronze Star in posthumous ceremonies.

housing" built to lax specifications using government funds.

Weman says nothing could be farther from the truth.

He said the structures built under the turnkey program receive no special privileges from the federal government.

The developer builds with his own money — that is, he secures his own loans either from a bank, building institution or an FHA loan.

Such loans are looked on with favor especially when it is proven they will be used under a long term contract with the government for senior citizens.

Normally a tentative contract term — say, 20 years — is called for.

This can be broken down into increments of five, five and ten years, or any other combination using the five and ten system.

Justification for this may be for the developer-owner to renegotiate monthly rentals with the government because of increasing property taxes.

The complex must pay all taxes on the property.

There is no tax break, government officials said.

The Housing and Urban Development office, using funds provided under the Federal Housing Act, subsidizes those senior citizens qualifying for such rentals. To qualify a citizen must be of a minimum age (62 for women and 65 for men); and have an income of less than $4,800 per year.

"It would be desirable for builders to stay with the contract for the full 20 years. They build the structures and then realize a steady income during the life of the contract whether the units are empty or full," Weman explained.

Hagan proposes building one bedroom apartments, designed for senior citizens — handrails in bathrooms, elevators, special doors for wheelchair cases, recreational areas within the compound.

During two planning commission meetings on the matter it was brought out that the location was less than ideal for the seniors.

Senior citizens contacted by The Times indicated just the opposite.

Mrs. Virgil Davis, president of the Daly City Senior Citizens club, argued transportation (Greyhound) passed within two blocks; five blocks away was a new supermarket and a sizeable discount store," small shops lined the streets, and the area was fairly level and suitable for walks.

Her group, along with the Westlake Senior Citizens, endorsed the complex.

Another fear is that Hagan would invite "imported" senior citizens to move to Daly City. This might strain the city's budget, some opponents feel.

Morgan J. Griffiths, housing development coordinator for the county Housing Authority, said a recent Daly City census disclosed there were some 1200 seniors qualified to move into the complex.

cism when Pass explained that the proposal does not mean that at all. It means, said Pass, that the commission would be able to control heights of buildings, types of streets (cobblestone or whatever) and location of parks.

"It is merely a review procedure," said Pass. "Only after weeks and weeks is the final plan born. Sometimes stillborn," he said.

Henry L. Richman, executive with J. H. Snyder Company, developers of Westborough, said he opposed it because private developers would not know what to anticipate. "Profits would go out the window," he said.

Haskins said 90 per cent of the city of South San Francisco has dried up because of "impossible restrictions" already imposed.

"It is when you fail to have the high standards that a city dries up," said Pass. "Look at Cabot, Cabot and Forbes. They have high standards. They're now starting a third development."

Core City Problems Have Regional Impact

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The "true city concept" was the major topic of conversation at the recent United States Conference of Mayors held in Philadelphia.

Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told the meeting of city officials that no longer could "core city problems" be discussed without consideration of overall regional impact.

And no longer could individual cities — large or small — afford to underwrite battles against pollution, mass transit and sewage treatment.

Cities have been negligent by improperly planning land use; meeting the needs for parks and open space; air and land transportation, and the continuing fight against all forms of pollution, federal and state officials have charged.

Councilman Frank Pacelli, vice mayor of Daly City and a representative at the meeting, vehemently disagreed with the charges. He points to the growth of Daly City and claims that the strides the city has made in planning of transportation (Bay Area Rapid Transit and Junipero Serra Freeway as examples) as proof the city accepts its responsibility to plan ahead.

But Pacelli also admits that a sort of "provincialism" exists among smaller cities. Each assumes an "after you, Alphonse" attitude in many cases that involve regional matters.

Pacelli does agree, however, that money is the big factor in dictating the need for cities to ban together.

"Local government does not have the resources to step in and finance large scale studies of, say, Bay Area airport," Pacelli said.

There are four Peninsula cities immediately concerned with happenings at International Airport — Millbrae, San Bruno, South San Francisco and Burlingame.

Second of Two Articles

Individually they all have their own ideas on the airport's development, Pacelli noted.

Transportation to all three major Bay Area airports is another problem of major proportion.

The Bay Area Rapid Transit District is now conducting studies costing millions of dollars to San Francisco International, Oakland International, and even to San Jose airport to the south.

Other feasibility studies for airports include transit to potential airport sites in Sonoma and Fairfield.

Each city in the path of a proposed transit line has its own ideas on how such a system should be built, past experience has shown.

To get the dozens of jurisdictions to agree on a final plan will be a monumental task, officials venture.

The secret of success to any regional venture is to start small and gradually expand as regional concepts are made more palatable, Pacelli and others feel.

"We don't need an all-encompassing agency at this time," Pacelli said.

Former Daly City city engineer Bill Chapman, partner in the engineering firm of Kirker-Chapman & Associates, said there are "valid points against formation of a huge regional umbrella agency."

He said people are not prepared for the "big brother" concept associated with such an agency.

Regional government is coming and those cities which continue to ignore this fact will simply be run over by a super-agency they cannot control, Menlo Park Councilman William Lawson predicts.

Lawson wants to see local people get more involved in the formation and operation of such government — not wait until it is too late to have a say.

"Regardless of what cities think, regional government is coming. It's got to come and the sooner the better," Lawson said.

Most cities in the county are willing to make necessary reforms to meet this future requirement, Lawson said.

He voices concern about the continued establishment of single purpose regional agencies.

Each time a problem arises in one field or another a new commission is set up, he said.

At present none of these agencies appears to be tied together.

This is where an "umbrella" agency would be most useful — to bring direction and purpose at the very top — officials feel.

Not only are duplications and overlapping of "regional" studies costly to taxpayers, they confuse many of the issues they are designed to solve, is a common complaint.

With the forecast for dramatic increases in air passenger traffic in coming years, direction for expansion of airports and support facilities must be effected.

San Francisco Director of Airports, James Carr, thinks airports must be looked at as complex transfer points between air and ground travel.

"Airports are part of a total transportation system involving all modes of travel," Carr said "To get the maximum use for the dollar invested in San Francisco International Airport we should tie it to an extension of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District through the airport terminal and on to San Mateo and southern Peninsula cities.

"Concurrently, we must develop the Bayshore Freeway fully, Interstate 380 connecting Interstate 280, and, ultimately, another vehicular route to the El Camino Real near Millbrae," Carr explained.

Such a mass transit system for both cars and rapid transit would maintain International Airport as a stable economic factor in the overall growth of San Mateo County, it is felt.

Other airports, including Oakland and San Jose, are likewise studying similar transportation systems.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, in a statement to Airport Commission chairman William E. McDonnell on January 12, 1970, the day Alioto created the Airports Commission, said:

"In years past you and your staff have ably kept pace with this amazing (airport) expansion. In looking to the future, however, I believe we must now reappraise the airport role in the governmental structure of the city.

"We must not permit outdated governmental procedures — regulations dating back to 1932 — to retard the airport's growth and cripple the economy of . . . the entire Bay Area."

Alioto said that only with a separate Airports Commission could the Peninsula continue to vigorously develop an air facility that can cope with the increasing passenger, commercial and industrial development of the Bay Area.

"It has become increasingly apparent too that we must start looking at airports and air travel from a regional point of view," Alioto said.

He admitted that unquestionably there would be difficult operational and ownership problems to overcome in this regard, however the creation of the Airports Commission was a definite step in the direction of regionalizing all airports in the Bay Area, Alioto felt.

Without the regionalizing airports will continue to expand, undoubtedly. But the hit or miss pattern of growth coupled with spot disbursement of government funds required to finance expansion, may not be able to keep pace with the public's demands for air travel, some officials feel.

In certain ventures regional government is welcomed, in others it is spurned.

What seems to emerge after a closer appraisal of political attitudes is that of people "wanting their cake and eating it."

Policeman Assaulted, Truck Driver Jailed

A 190-pound truck driver was jailed on Sunday after he used judo on the 150-pound Pacifica policeman sent to enforce a restraining order, police said.

Patrolman Robert Robinson, 28, was thrown across a room, jumped upon and beaten by Nathaniel K. Nahinu, 36, of 1143 Bannion Way, according to Pacifica authorities.

The Pacifica police charged Nahinu, who is 5-feet-11 inches tall, with feloneous assault on a police officer. He was booked into the county jail at Redwood City.

Robinson, who is 5-feet, 8-inches tall, was dispatched to the Nahinu residence at 7:35 p.m. on the complaint of the suspect's wife.

She wanted the man ejected. She had a restraining order, police said.

Nahinu refused to leave the house and used judo on Patrolman Robinson. Nahinu was on top of the policeman, beating him, when Patrolmen Ed Burton and Ed Boll arrived to assist, the authorities said.

Burton and Boll finally subdued the suspect.

Robinson was treated in Kaiser Hospital at South San Francisco. He suffered a cut on the head, facial scratches and puncture wounds on a hand and on the shoulder, and complained of a stiff neck and chest pains on the right side, police said.

Bail was set at $25,000 cash (or $50,000 bond) last Friday as the preliminary hearing for Wanda June Studley, 23, and Georgia Anne Bohlen, 22, was continued to August 6 at 2 p.m.

The San Francisco women are charged with murder in the death June 25 of Edgar Noel Garrison, 47, in a South San Francisco hotel.

Garrison of Redwood City died of acute toxicity, according to Coroner Paul B. Jensen. Garrison was a sales manager for a South San Francisco company.

Bail was set by Northern Judicial District Judge Charles Becker after a chambers conference with Attorney Nicholas Deriman, representing Miss Bohlen. Judge Becker said he would grant bail "Under conditions made with Mr. Deriman that are not stated for the record. He understands."

Deriman had been making motions for bail ever since he was retained by the family of his client. At Friday's session Deriman brought in numerous character witnesses, including an aunt, uncle and cousins from Illinois. They came prepared to meet bail.

Although bail is unusual in a capital offense, it is not unheard of. Deriman's position was that a judge can use his discretion when the case in question indicates that guilt is not evident, nor is there great presumption of guilt.

The bail was issued for both defendants. However, Miss Studley, being represented by a court appointed attorney could not take advantage of it.

Her attorney, Gordon Rockhill of Redwood City, said, "I wish I could say Wanda Studley had friends and relatives coming to her aid. Those people simply don't exist."

Both defense attorneys contend Deputy District Attorney Dick Bennett has not presented a concise enough picture for conviction.

The prosecution is attempting to show that the defendants intended to drug Garrison and his business associate John Thomas Crawley by putting something in their drinks, also planning to rob them when they passed out.

Airport Unit Agrees To Fight the Noise

The San Francisco Airports Commission last week agreed to spend $5.2 million fighting jet noises, thus ending lawsuits against themselves by 44 Peninsula families.

Attorneys for the Peninsula plaintiffs hailed the settlement as a landmark victory. Aides for San Francisco International Airport said the agreement requires them to do nothing they were not already planning to do.

There is no cash settlement to the homeowners. Director of Airports James K. Carr, lauded the Peninsula homeowners for agreeing to such a settlement.

According to its terms, the city will spend $5 million to lengthen runway 28 right by 3,000 feet. This will get planes into the air sooner and therefore higher over South San Francisco.

The city agreed to urge increased takeoff and landings of runway 1, thereby cutting the number of planes over South San Francisco.

The city will install at the cost of one quarter million dollars an electronic monitoring system which will be used to determine which planes are noisy while they are in the air.

The city will work with the Federal Aviation Administration to re-route aircraft leaving and approaching the airport so that they will create less noise to homes on the ground.

Two major lawsuits were settled by the agreement.

One involved 32 South San Francisco residents. The other involved 12 residents of Woodside and the Portola Valley area.

About $10,000 in damages had been sought by each of the plaintiffs.

Involved in the South San Francisco suit were Councilmen Warren Steinkamp and Frank Mammini. In the south county action, the list included author Carlton E. Morse, who for many years wrote radio's "One Man's Family" show.

Joseph W. Cotchett, one of a group of attorneys who represented local residents, expressed pleasure at the settlement on behalf of the clients.

He said the clients were satisfied with a San Francisco's agreement to spend more than $5 million to solve the noise problem.

Of the $5 million, $250,000 will be spent for noise and flight monitoring equipment.

Airports Commissioners William E. McDonnell, John A. Sutro and Wallace R. Lynn joined in expressing their satisfaction in resolving the suit. McDonnell, who heads the board, said need for noise control is recognized by San Francisco.

Deputy City Attorney Jerome Cohen said the settlement probably was the first which was agreed upon without damages being paid the suing parties.

Cohen said, "The decision of the property owners to accept a settlement which will reduce noise levels around the airport is proof that they were not interested in the money, but in getting a quieter environment."

The two suits had been preceded some years ago by one filed by 59 Millbrae residents who sought $3.4 million in damages. San Francisco won that case on a technicality.

DC Youth Was to Have Been Cancelled Transplant Donor

A Daly City youth who was stricken with a terminal illness, reportedly a brain hemorrhage, was taken to Stanford University Hospital, Palo Alto, Wednesday to be the donor in a heart transplant.

The Post learned that George M. Ruano, 20, 553 Southgate, had been at County Jail, Redwood City, serving a 60-day term for possession of marijuana and was to have been the donor in the proposed heart transplant.

A hospital spokesman said a heart transplan was cancelled when it was determined that the donor's heart had sustained damage. Hospital authorities would identify neither the intended donor nor recipient.

It was understood that the young jail inmate was the donor, however, in a kidney transplant. The Stanford spokesman said there was a kidney transplant last night, but again, he would not identify the donor.

Sheriff's Lt. William Moran said Ruano became ill in his cell at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday. He complained of dizziness and seemed to have a slight fever. He was taken to Chope Community Hospital in San Mateo where doctors determined that he had sustained terminal brain damage, according to Moran.

Ruano's mother, Mrs. Ellen L. Fleminy of the Daly City address was contacted and her permission received for donation of her son's organs. Transfer of Ruano from Chope Hospital to Stanford Hospital was approved, Moran said, by Superior Court Judge Lyle R. Edson.

Moran said he was notified by Stanford authorities that following the kidney transplant, artificial life support systems were removed and Ruano died at 9:30 p.m.

An autopsy was scheduled by the Santa Clara County coroner's office to determine the cause of death.

S.S.F. Meeting Is Called a 'Sham'

By BOB PETERSON

A member of the South San Francisco committee to seek alternate solutions to the controversial ordinance banning nonreturnable bottles and cans last week called the group's meeting a sham, and walked out.

John Yantis, of 239 Armour Avenue, said a good faith compromise between the proponents and the opponents of the ordinance was violated at the last meeting of the committee.

This was the meeting where a unanimous vote was taken to ask the city council to rescind the ordinance. None of the proponents to the ordinance were present at that meeting. Nor was Yantis.

According to Yantis, who had attended an earlier meeting, the understanding was that if the proponents would agree to the rescinding of the ordinance the opponents would come up with a compromise recycling program. In addition, the matter was to be put to a referundum vote of the people in April of next year.

Yantis said the only reason for the last meeting was for the opponents to come up with a workable recycling program.

Instead, at this meeting the vote was made to rescind the ordinance. No further mention was made of the informal agreement to put the matter of whether the ordinance should go into effect on the ballot.

"This committee has been stacked from the beginning," said Yantis, referring to the fact the proponents have minority representation.

"The opponents are reneging even on the appearance of having an unbiased committee making valid recommendations to the council. I refuse to participate in a sham," said Yantis.

"Now the referendum is not even a point of conversation. If that's the case, there is no reason for the meeting to be progressing.

"As a citizen who entered into this committee in good faith, I have become completely disillusioned at the length industry will go to in influencing committeemen and merchants when it comes to their economic gain," said Yantis.

Councilmen Monday night gave approval for the city to become a joint applicant in seeking federal funding of the project. If the plan succeeds, it would appear to be the answer to many Bay Area garbage and recycling problems.

Chairman Bertucelli said this would be the last meeting. He said he would make a full report to Mayor Borba after compiling the intentions of the committee.

Gene Mullin, proponent and South San Francisco High School ecology teacher, said he would file a minority report to be included in the packet to the mayor.

Police Say 6 Involved in Robbery

There may have been as many as six persons involved in the robbery of a Daly City radio store on July 16, police said today.

Only one person has thus far been arrested in connection with the robbery and abduction of radio store owner Alan Mayeda.

Albert Lew, 16, surrendered to Daly City police while accompanied by his lawyer last week.

A second suspect, Edison Mua, 16, is still being sought, Police Captain Richard Sims said.

It was learned, however, that Mayeda, while bound and blindfolded, told police he had heard several persons inside his store during the robbery attempt.

Apparently when police pulled up in front most of the suspects fled, police surmise.

Two armed youths stayed behind to act as a "rear guard" police now believe.

Using Mayeda as a shield the pair broke through police lines and made good their escape into San Francisco.

The victim was later released unharmed.

Police said Lew, who is in custody at Hillcrest Youth Guidance Center, became a prime suspect when the car allegedly used to flee the scene at Junipero Serra Boulevard, was traced to his father.

Investigation continues in the case, according to Sims.

Legislation for Park Acquisition

Joint state-county acquisition of a 38-acre addition to Montara State Beach will be possible under legislation authored by Senator Arlen Gregorio (D-San Mateo).

Amendments introduced by the Senator would give the State Department of Parks and Recreation authorization to use $315,000 federal grant money already earmarked for the purchase. San Mateo County would match federal funds with an equal sum. No state money would be spent.

Funds Approved for Safety Job

Funds with which to improve safety on the Bayshore Freeway (Route 101) between just north of Whipple Avenue in Redwood City and the south city limit of San Bruno, San Mateo County, were allocated by the California Highway Commission at a business meeting in Oakland.

The work will consist of repositioning light standards along the sides of the freeway onto special bases so designed that the poles will slip away harmlessly if struck by an out-of-control vehicle.

Democrats to Speak at San Bruno Meet

State Senate President Pro Tem George Moscone (D-San Francisco) and Congressman Jerome R. Waldie (D-Antioch) will be featured speakers at the biennial "Democrat of the Year" awards dinner Saturday night at Russo's Restaurant in San Bruno.

The dinner is a fund-raising affair sponsored by the United Democratic Fund of San Mateo County.

A no-host cocktail party will begin at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, followed by the dinner. Tickets, at $10 per person, may be obtained by calling county Democratic headquarters in San Mateo.

A selection committee is working on selections for honors, which will go to those who made the greatest contributions to the party in the last election year.

Annual County Fair, Floral Fiesta Opens

The 160,000 plus visitors expected to attend this year's San Mateo County Fair & Floral Fiesta will be treated to a wide and varied array of exhibits, displays, entertainment, contests, and special events. The 37th annual community event opened Monday.

Theme of the Fair this year, which runs through Aug. 7, is "Fiestaland Fantasy", and the fantasy motif will be carried out throughout the fairgrounds, according to Louis D. Schenone, president of the Fair & Convention Association. Sal Millan, general manager of the association, anticipates an eight per cent increase over the record breaking gate of last year.

The floral display at the San Mateo County Fair is considered one of the biggest and best in the country. Over 25,000 square feet of flowers — or enough blooms to fill over 12 average homes — will be on display in the Hall of Flowers during the Fair's 13-day run. The Hall of Flowers, which measures just over 34,000 square feet, will literally be bulging at the seams with flowers, trees and plants of almost every conceivable variety.

An auction of over 80 steers and almost 200 lambs will highlight the 4-H and Future Farmers of America Livestock exhibit at this year's Fair. The auction will take place Thursday, Aug. 5, in the 4-H Ring at 10 a.m.

John Kyne and Victor Canavese, co-chairmen of the Livestock and Agriculture committee, reported that last year buyers spent a record $58,033 at the auction. The Grand Champion steer was purchased by Vince's Italian Restaurant and the Grand Champion lamb was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cozzolino of Half Moon Bay. The average steer sold for 50 cents a pound and the lamb sold for 76 cents a pound.

The Home Economics division is adding an attraction titled "The New Cookery Kitchen." The kitchen will have two cooking demonstrations a day, at 2 and 7 p.m. The demonstrations will cover everything from cake decorating to canning and freezing.

Crafts such as weaving, tie dying and Japanese doll making will be exhibited and demonstrated, as well as the traditional crocheting, embroidery, sewing and cooking displays.

The Agriculture Building will feature a revolving display of produce grown in San Mateo County. The Half Moon Bay Growers Association is providing examples of the produce that is grown in and sold from the county.

Booths by the various Granges in San Mateo County will have artistic displays of produce as well as educational displays.

The "One Family Farms" division will feature displays of fruits and vegetables grown by an individual family. The traditional plate displays will also be included in the Agriculture Building.

Exhibitors in both these buildings compete for prize money and ribbons.

Jazz singer Kay Starr and tap dancer Arthur Duncan of the Lawrence Welk Show will headline "Showtime '71" at the Fair.

Duncan, who has been performing professionally since 1953, will head the bill for the first six days. In 1958, the talented singer-dancer signed for a ten-day engagement in Australia as a featured performer in the Jimmy Rodgers troupe. These appearances led to his own television show "down under" and five years of top club appearances throughout Europe and the Middle East.

Joining the talented Duncan on the Fiesta Bowl stage will be Las Vegas comedian Mike Caldveil and Joe Lemke's "International Chimps."

On Aug. 1, Kay Starr will begin her seven-day run. Miss Starr gained popularity during the Big Band era when she sang with the Glenn Miller and Bob Crosby bands and recorded such hits as "Wheel of Fortune," "Bonaparte's Retreat" and "Wabash Cannonball."

Originally a hillbilly singer, Miss Starr turned to jazz singing in 1939. She is still one of Las Vegas' and Lake Tahoe's most sought after attractions and can be seen regularly on many TV variety shows.

Appearing with her during the second week of the Fair will be "The Expedition," a country-western music group, and unicyclist-juggler Jim Dandy.

In addition to these entertainers, Ray Hackett's Orchestra and the Duane Dancers will perform throughout the Fair's entire 13-day run.

Showtime is 9 p.m. each night plus 4 o'clock matinees on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. No admission is charged other than the one paid at the entrance to the fairgrounds.

Entertainment at the Fair will not be restricted to "Showtime '71", however. Gentle Ben, TV's favorite bear, will appear on the Fiesta Bowl stage at 3:30 on both of the special "Kids' Days" — July 27 and Aug. 2.

Horse racing will again play a big part in the Fair & Floral Fiesta this year. Neighboring Bay Meadows race track will present a 12-race program each day except Sunday, Aug. 1. Post time is 1 p.m daily.

Nine of the 12 races will feature thoroughbreds and two others will involve quarter horses. The other race on the card will be strictly for Appaloosas — a new event at the Fair.

Like last year, adults will pay $1.50 to see the full fair while students (with student body cards) and youngsters 12-16 will be charged 50 cents. Children 11 and under who are accompanied by an adult will be admitted free.

On the special "Kids' Day," Aug. 2, the children will be admitted free until 5 p.m. even if not accompanied by an adult. These days will also feature reduced rates on carnival rides for the youngsters.

Ladies and senior citizens (65 and over) will have special days. On July 30 the senior citizens will be admitted at half price and on Aug. 5 ladies will be charged only $1 until 6 p.m.

Hillsdale Shopping Center and Coca-Cola are both sponsoring a "Family Day," Aug. 2, and giving away tickets good for reduced admission and carnival prices. Hillsdale tickets are available from any merchant in the shopping center and Coke tickets can be obtained inside six-packs of Coca-Cola.

THE BATTERED hulk of a small foreign car is mute testimony to the head-on collision which left one woman dead and two others injured. The three women were heading south on Highway One at Moss Beach Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding was struck by another vehicle. (Times Photo)

SSF Woman Dies in Coast Crash

A young woman was killed and two other persons injured Sunday morning in a head-on collision of two cars on Highway 1 at Moss Beach.

Killed was Kay Mindham, 37, of 227 Dundee, South San Francisco.

Injured were Joanne Suttle, 20, also of 227 Dundee, South San Francisco, and Robert Bendict, 27, of 1202 Audubon, Montara.

State Highway Patrol Officer A. L. Toscanelli reported that a northbound car driven by Benedict collided at approximately 9:45 a.m. with one driven in the opposite direction by Miss Suttle, whose passenger, Mindham, was killed.

Benedict was cited for driving on the wrong side of a highway and the report said that he may be charged with felony manslaughter pending the outcome of a blood alcohol test.

Officer Toscanelli said that Benedict was not booked at the time of the accident because of the nature and extent of his injuries.

Fund Report Clarified

In an article last week concerning a meeting of the North County Council of Cities The Post reported that the Knox Bill would set up an agency with taxing powers to be funded by a tax on five cents on each $100 of assessed valuation of property.

Angelo Siracusa, executive vice president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council, corrects this report by stating that the Agency cannot levy taxes and that the funding will be a property transfer tax, not an ad valorem tax, at 4 cents on each $100 of property sold.

More Ramps for Freeway Are Needed

Additional ramps must be constructed connecting the Bayshore Freeway (Route 101) and the Interstate 380 Freeway with the San Francisco International Airport and its shop and support areas, the California Highway Commission has decided.

Commissioner Vernon Cristina of San Jose said the airport has predicted a 100 per cent increase in passenger travel within the next five years, due in part to the impact of new and larger aircraft.

Support services at the airport and in the neighboring industrial areas are expected to expand with the airport's growth.

The new ramps will connect the Bayshore Freeway from its interchange with the Interstate 380 Freeway not only to South Airport Boulevard, as previously planned, but across this boulevard to North Access Road which serves the airport shop area.

They will also connect Rollins Road, which the airport will extend northerly through airport property from Millbrae Avenue in Millbrae to Seventh Avenue in San Bruno, with the Airport Interchange.

The State will bear the entire cost of the new connections from the Bayshore - Interstate 380 Freeway Interchange, and the construction cost of the connections with Rollins Road. Rights of way for the Rollins Road ramps will be provided by the airport.

The new ramps were discussed, along with design plans for the two freeways near the airport, at a public hearing conducted by the Division of Highways in San Bruno in June 1970.

Livestock Award to Carithers

Dale Carithers will be honored for his contributions to the livestock industry at the 1971 Grand National Livestock Exposition, October 22 through 31, at San Francisco's Cow Palace, reports Walter T. Rodman, president of the Cow Palace board of directors in Daly City.

Carithers testimonial will be held on Hereford Judging Day, October 27.

P-TA Councils for Millbrae and South San Francisco

Millbrae and South San Francisco P-TA units will belong soon to P-TA Councils according to Mrs. Earl Oldham of San Bruno, president of San Mateo County's Seventeenth District. Mrs. Oldham also confirmed that Mrs. Doyle Hoffman, president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers will be the guest at the Seventeenth District's annual dinner October 21.

Nearly $4000 has been donated to the CCPT toward the $8000 goal for purchase by the CCPT of a 10-acre parcel of redwood forest land as a part of Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park in Del Norte County, Mrs. Oldham reported. She said that the gift of the land is intended to honor the 75th Anniversary of the founding of P-TA, which will be celebrated next spring.

Most P-TA units will be publicizing purchase of the grove along with their fall membership enrollment. Anyone, P-TA member or not, may contribute to the fund by sending a donation directly to the CCPT office, 930 Georgia St., Los Angeles, 90015, clearly marked "for the P-TA Redwood Grove."

Such gifts, in any amount, are tax deductible.

A 10 percent increase in P-TA membership, to 1,750,000, is the goal of CCPT for the coming school year.

"P-TA Provides the Action—Join Today" will remain the membership enrollment theme, said Mrs. Oldham. The action theme will also use the letters P-TA—"Prime Time for Action." The National P-TA action theme "People Taking Action" has already been seen on television commercials designed to acquaint the public with P-TA plans for a national reading improvement program.

Linda Barnes a Camp Counsellor

LINDA BARNES

Linda Barnes, a Daly City Girl Scout for the past 11 years, is putting her training in camping and community citizenship to work this summer as a counselor at the San Francisco Bay Area Girl Scout Camp Bothin in Marin County.

Linda and about 30 other staff members, is responsible for from 80 to 140 girls, each of the eight sessions of seven days that the girls (who are between the ages of seven and 12) are in camp.

"The noise of 20 girls in one room is fantastic, but the kids and the program are really neat," she recently said.

Some of the girls are a little homesick, but they usually snap out of it when confronted with the camp emphasis of beginning camping. They enjoy hiking, swimming, arts and crafts, and for many of them the camp is an introduction to nature to which the city girls haven't been exposed.

The range of reactions to that first bug is interesting to Miss Barnes, who says that they don't act always like you expect them to, that is, the shyest girls might want to keep the bug to take it home and the most brave girls may panic at the sight of anything with eight legs.

So far this summer, she has worked with the more experienced girls in the outdoor unit and with the 7-9 year olds in the Manor houses; and is anxiously awaiting the start of the next four weeks.

Miss Barnes comes from a Girl Scouting family, with her mother recently honored with a thanks badge, the highest award that can be earned by a volunteer.

Linda was asked to become a counselor this year because of her own outstanding record and because of her performance last year at Bothin as a leader in training.

HOLDING a recent picnic swimming party at Girl Scout Camp Arequipa (the site of an old Indian burial ground) were the girls of Daly City Girl Scout Troop 442.

Lifeguarding was provided by an adult from the troop with the assistance of Miss Twila Foster and Robin Christensen of Mrs. R. Damon's Mariner Ship 13 of Daly City.

Girls participating were Debbie Yahagi, Jana Kast, Shawna Foster, Debbie Crawford, Regina Gagen, Marcella Wetherbee, Katlenee Torres, Patty Martin and Vicky Morino.

The girls barbequed hot dogs, and chili beans provided by the troop.

Transportation was provided by Mrs. H. Yahagi.

Drinking Straw Great Entertainment

Have you ever thought of how many ways you can use an ordinary drinking straw?

When you consider the number of hours children can entertain themselves with an average size box of plastic straws you'll wonder why you haven't invested in a couple of boxes before now If you have some on hand let the children begin using them for crafts today. If you don't have any, put them on your must shopping list and be prepared with some craft ideas the neyt time your offspring "haven't got a thing to do."

Most straw crafts are neat and require very little clean up or preparation time. The exception to the "no mess rule" is straw painting so we'll discuss all the other projects first and you can save that idea for the day when nothing else seems to capture the children's imagination.

The easiest way to please little girls is to let them make jewelry and plastic straws lend themselves magically to this type of activity. Cut straws of various colors into one-inch lengths. If your child is young, tie one of the lengths to a piece of yarn, older children can manage that chore by themselves, then let the young craftsman string straw pieces onto the yarn to make lengths for necklaces or bracelets. If you have wagon wheel shaped pasta on hand the jewelry designers can alternate pieces of straw with pieces of the pasta for a more elaborate look. If you have prepared for all types of emergency, the table is well protected and your child is garbed in some sort of smock, a small amount of food coloring in a plastic pudding bowl, or similar container, can be used to dye the wagon wheels.

Boys and girls thoroughly enjoy drawing people and you can offer them a new approach to toy people population with, naturally, straws.

Get the yarn and scissors to go with the plastic straws and show the children how to make basic people, and they'll come up with some great ideas for the finishing details.

Cut two lengths of yarn about 40 inches long. Thread both pieces through a straw, center the straw on the yarn and then pull the ends of the straw together and tie all four strands of yarn to hold it in the rounded shape needed for the head. Divide the yarn and using one strand from each side attach two straws, for arms, by threading a strand of straw through the "arm" and tie it in place by tying on a one-inch straw section to form a "hand." Thread the remaining two strands of yarn through another straw to form a "body," then separate the yarn and attach two legs using the same method as for the arms and hands.

With the body formed you can innovate faces and attire. A clean powder puff glued over one side of the head makes a fine face which can be finished with button eyes or a simple drawn-on face. Cotton balls can be glued on the head for hair or to form a beard. Paper clothing can be added or the doll can be left in its original condition and the details of its face and personality left entirely to the child's imagination. Each figure can be finished in a new way so each creation is a new experience for the child. Don't worry about how "right" the finished product looks, if the child is satisfied with his masterpiece then it is "right"!

Once the interest in straw people wanes, don't throw the straws away. Cut the string and put the slightly used straws away for another day when they can be rebuilt as new figures or cut up to be used for jewelry or cut in half to be used for straw painting.

Straw painting is a little more complicated for the mother to set up but it is a craft that will probably amuse children for a fairly long period. Dig out the plastic drop cloths and a paint smock for the young artist and then mix dry tempra colors with commercial liquid starch in baby food jars. The resulting paints will be thicker than paints prepared with water and so will have less tendency to run and will cling to the straws better. Place a half length of straw in each color and then let the child blow through the straw to splatter the paints on a piece of butcher paper, a cut open paper bag or even some paper towelling. The effects are quite

The couple exchanged vows at 2 p.m. at the United Community Methodist Church in Millbrae. The Rev. Robert DeWolf officiated.

THE MARQUEE

The University of San Francisco's annual Symposium gracefully combines elegance, argument and surprise. You never know when a Women's Libber might slip into the three-day discussion, or a libertine take to shocking the assembled lecturers and discussants.

Behind the respectable facade of academia there lurks some iconoclastic and frustrated debaters. The theme of "Change and Chaos-Bruno, Donne and Descartes" makes a ripe target for all kinds of intellectual mayhem.

But to soothe the aching ego and tortured psyche on the first night of the three-day, August 5, 6, and 7 event will be Ron Morgan who will bring five musicians with 25 handmade Renaissance instruments from his noted Berkeley-based musical group Consortium Antiquum to accompany dancers Angene Feves and Charles Perrier in late 16th and 17th century dances. The entertainment will follow dinner in the foyer of the Opera House.

While the lecturers will examine a time when the Establishment was assaulted on all sides as are institutions today, participants will perhaps be able to broaden their wisdom, lower their blood pressure and put things into some perspective.

Morgan, who describes himself as a "practising musician rather than a scholar," studied astronomy and philosophy at University of California, playing oboe and french horn for pleasure.

After teaching himself the recorder, he became interested in collecting antique musical scores and searched the archives at UC for musicological transcriptions and microfilmed manuscripts dating back to the eighth century and on Babylonian clay tablets back to the 27th century, B.C.

"Little is known about music prior to the 16th century. Most musicians are unaware of the history of their own art," he said.

It was Herbert Meyers of Stanford University, now with the New York Pro Musica who helped him build his first instruments, showing him how to use a lathe. The result of this productivity was a krummhorn or antique clarinet, a flute, and a rebec which is a distant relative of the violin. He has 12 such instruments in his collection, including a cornetto shaped like an animal horn and a rauschpfeife.

"The right tone is a question of educated guessing. The important thing is that you try to be as authentic as possible but your responsibility to composer and musicians of 100 years ago also guide you," he said.

"There is a fundamentally different way of writing music today. We think of melody as having the highest tone, as with the first violins. During the Renaissance, instruments were of a tenor pitch and were the lead instruments, making the sound more homogenous. Today we have melody and the rest is all accompaniment."

On the second day of the Symposium, the main event will be luncheon (after the lectures) at the Ben Jonson restaurant with bawdy songs, pornographic lyrics of the 17th century sung by The Rye Cathers. On the final night at the Marin Art and Garden Center, the Marin Shakespearean Festival Singers will entertain with French madrigals.

Reservations for part or all of the events may be made through Father William Monihan, S.J., Gleeson Library, University of San Francisco, 2130 Fulton street, San Francisco 94117.

THE AMERICAN MUSICAL THEATRE AND ACADEMY will present a musical variety show, "Make Mine Broadway," a song and dance concert made up of 50 years of smash hit tunes from Broadway's greatest musicals. The AMTA road company will make its deput at the San Mateo County Fair August 1 at 7:30 p.m. and the show will be repeated August 7 at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. in the Fiesta Bowl, "Make Mine Broadway" was written and staged by the AMTA producer-director, Jack Brooks, and stars sixteen members of the company. Hit musicals represented in the production include such great shows as "Brigadoon," "Sound of Music," "The Student Prince," "No, No, Nanette," "Carousel," "West Side Story," "Camelot," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Hair," and many others. The composers represented in the production enclude such talented men as Romberg, Kern, Gershwin, Rodgers, Loewe, Mercer, Stein, Loesser, Porter, and Bernstein among others. (Howard Photo)

STUDENTS in the children's dance and rhythm class (ages four to eight) of the San Mateo County YWCA program are instructed by Maryann Brickner at St. Andrews Church, San Bruno. Students pictured: Laurie Baries. Wendy Baries, Amy Bahlen and Lisa Maradiaza. Classes are held from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. each Tuesday. Teen-age dance classes are after that.

Marjorie Connell Is Wed to Alfred John Bortolin

Marjorie Ann Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connell of Millbrae, was married on Sunday at St. Gregory's Church in San Mateo to Alfred John Bortolin. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bortolin of San Mateo.

The bride wore a white organza gown with an Empire bodice which was appliqued with peau d'ange lace and pearls and styled with a Victorian neckline. The same lace motifs were appliqued to her bishop sleeves and bordered the skirt.

Marjorie's chapel length veil was caught by a headpiece of matching lace and pearls. She carried pink baby roses, baby's breath, white carnations, and daisies as she approached the altar with her father.

Karen Prigmore, the maid of honor, wore a long cherry pink dress with set-in short bell sleeves. The raised waistline was circled by a self-band looped into a string bow at the front. A Watteau panel added back detail. Karen's flowers were pink and white daisies, white button flowers, and baby's breath.

Kimberley Davenport and Lisa Bortolin served as flower girls. They wore floor length dresses in pink and white and carried pink and white daisies, white button flowers, and baby's breath.

Steven Bortolin served as the ring bearer.

Terry Murphy was best man, and ushers were Louis Bortolin Jr. and Richard Bortolin, brothers of the bridegroom, and Bruce Detwi.

At the reception which followed at the El Rancho in Millbrae, Mrs. Connell greeted guests in a mint green street length dress with a jeweled collar. She pinned orchids to her matching jacket. Mrs. Bortolin wore a baby blue street length linen dress with jewel buttons and also pinned on an orchid.

attractive, even when the youngest "painter" is at work, and an older child can produce some fascinatingly beautiful work.

Let the artists experiment to determine if they want to hold the straw close to the paper or hold it several inches back from the paper when blowing. The end result will be very different with the two techniques and sophisticated young artisans may wish to mix the two methods to get the type of effect they want to create. When everyone is tired of this craft, put the lids on the paint jars and save the paints for another day when you can straw paint again or try some of the other painting methods that will be discussed in this column.

Vows Exchanged in North County

White gladioli, chrysanthemums and carnations interspersed with stephanotis and ferns decorated the altar at the United Methodist Church in San Bruno Saturday afternoon when Lynne Ann Wheless and Donald Ralph Murphy exchanged vows.

The Rev. Lewis Whitehead conducted the one o'clock service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donovan E. Wheless Sr. of San Bruno and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Swann of South San Francisco.

Lynne was graduated from Crestmoor High School and her bridegroom is an alumnus of South San Francisco High School. He is affiliated with the South San Francisco Boys' Club.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Empire gown of white nylon over taffeta trimmed with white satin ribbon. The gown also featured long sheer sleeves, a ruffled neckline, and a white satin flat head bow with an illusion veil. She completed her outfit with a mantilla trimmed with white daisies.

Miniature white carnations and orchids mixed with stephanotis were fashioned in Lynne's bridal bouquet which was tied with white satin ribbon.

Janet Burrious of San Bruno, the maid of honor, and Lisa Wheless, her sister's junior bridesmaid, were both dressed in long sleeveless turquoise Empire gowns with dark turquoise velvet ribbon trim and head bows. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white miniature carnations tied with turquoise ribbon.

Bill Linnieman of South City stood with Donald as best man and Jack and Robert Murphy, his brothers, seated guests with Don Wheless Jr., Lynne's brother.

Large paper bells were arranged at the reception which followed at the Carlton Corners in San Bruno.

The bridegroom is also the brother of Stanley and Billy Murphy, Geri Fagalde, Gloria Coates and Donna Cook. After a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, he and his bride will live in San Bruno.

Wieland-Duncan Nuptials

The San Bruno home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wieland was the setting recently for the reception which followed the marriage of their daughter, Elaine Anne, and James Christopher Duncan. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Duncan, also of San Bruno.

Elaine and James exchanged vows at St. Robert's Church. The bride, who is an alumna of Crestmoor High School, walked to the altar with her father. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, yellow baby roses and baby's breath.

Sole attendant for her sister was Joan Wieland. Her flowers were yellow roses and white daisies.

Tom Duncan attended his brother as best man and ushering duties were shared by Pete Churgel and John Saltenberger.

Guests included Dr. and Mrs. J. Allen Thomas of Placentia and Lt. and Mrs. George A. Wieland of Scott Air Force Base, Ill., who are the bride's brother and sister-in-law.

Debbie Wieland is Elaine's sister and James also is the brother of Lynne Duncan. Also a graduate of Crestmoor, he earned his associate arts degree at the College of San Mateo.

The newlyweds will reside in Millbrae.

A 'Thing' at the Park in South SF

What is a Thing in the Park?

The South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department will answer this question August 12 between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Most recreation areas will be closed that day, since the recreation personnel will be working in this "Thing." All age groups, parents included, are invited to the Thing in the Park.

"Things" will be happening all day. Among them will be an art show, play ground all-star games (boys and girls), a pops concert, a bring your own bar-b-que, an exclusive Tiny Tot area, and activities, a do-your-own-art project, a dazzling tennis tournament, a messy pie-eating contest, thrilling running, jumping, throwing contests, rock bands, judo, wrestling, yoga, clowns and movies and more.

The events will be held at Orange Memorial Park will be the final event for the Recreation and Park Department's 1971 summer program.

LATEST PROPOSITION from County Supervisor Ged Day concerning the legalization of gambling and prostitution to help bail property owners out of their tax dilemma sparked a response from county schools' chief J. Russell Kent to the effect it would take some 4500 employees of the "plan" performing an average of 10 "tricks" a day at $10 per to raise the required monies. Asked about this, supervisor Bob St. Clair said he thinks Day's proposal "is nothing more than a piecemeal approach" to the problem. That St. Clair sure has got a way with words, by golly!

ARE YOU at least 10 years old, but less then 14, as of August 1, not in high school, and weigh between 80 and 120 pounds? If you are, and if you want to become the idol of every girl on the block (perhaps the entire (city), the Daly City Flyers football team wants you! Now's the time to contact Mac Stewart (755-7196), Jim Bird (758-7080) or Tom Maitre (992-4372) and enlist for the season in the Pop Warner Football League. There ain't much time left, so hurry!

SOCIETY SECTION — In our efforts to expand this column and attract more readers we have decided to run those social notes which we feel are of interest to both our readers (and might get us a free cup of coffee). Here's a flash from Mrs. Murray H. Freedman who just returned from a four-day "gala" inaugural of the new Hotel Condesa del Mar in Acapulco: One of the guests at the "gala ball" held at the Hotel Condesa del Mar in Acapulco was astronaut James Lovell. And folks wait till ya hear who provided the "special" entertainment at the "gala" inaugural of the Hotel Condesa del Mar in Acapulco. Sergio Mendes & Brasil 66, that's who provided the special entertainment!

UPDATE ON THE FOLKS — Where they were and why they ain't still there dept.: Glen Weman, ex-executive director of the San Mateo Housing Authority, has resigned his volunteer post with the Daly City Knowles Avenue Relocation Advisory Committee, because of "conflicting dates." He commended the city attorney and staff for the "outstanding job being done by them in carrying out a difficult task." The project, we add, is progressing nicely . . . Exie Wallace has resigned from the Advisory Housing Committee (also D.C.)in a letter to Committee chairman Ed Eastman. No one has been appointed to fill either vacancy yet. At least we haven't heard of anyone . . . Mel Lichman opened a new Shakey's Pizza place in Millbrae, bringing to three his current pizza holdings. Mama mia hesa making da dough . . . And least we bring the wrath of our good buddy Toto Spadarella down on our beloved head those menus being served at the D.C. Baccala Club these days are the talk of the town. The jokes could use some help though.

GEORGE KIRCHHUBEL, D.C. tavern owner, reported the other day his group of petitioners has already collected more than 1600 signatures to keep the courthouse in Daly City. The petition, to be backed by a personal visit to the Board of Supervisors, is expected to give certain folks second thoughts about closing the muni court on Wellington. Hope it works, George. But past experience with some county and local government officials points to their telling YOU what's good for the people — not the People telling them what they want.

IF YOU HAPPEN onto D.C. Police Captain Richard Sims ask him why his fellow fuzz call him "Plunky?" Then go out and hit a golf ball against a tree and youll have the answer.

IT WAS PERSONNEL DIRECTOR Rick Wilhelm's birthday last week, and the D.C. city hall mob turned out to help him celebrate it with cake and plastic candles. Plastic candles?

GARBAGE, GARBAGE EVERYWHERE — Those slobs are at it again — tossing their trash over those beautiful slopes on San Bruno Mountain. And before I start getting another rash of phone calls from the conservationist element, let me say I've had it with listening to those who like to pound their chests and point the accusing finger at the property owner.

Fact: This problem has been fought tooth and nail by Crocker Land, which hired extra hands to police the area and pick up trash, truckloads of it.

Fact: As fast as they could pick it up, thoughtless slobs dump more.

Fact: While all this was going on the "silent majority" that spotted this going on remained silent.

So if you want to have those green hills green with shrubs and not knee-deep in garbage, pick up the phone and call the cops when you see someone trying to make a dump out of YOUR environment. DON'T TELL US UNTIL AFTER YOU'VE REPORTED THE INCIDENT.

ONE GROUP that really gets invilved in their business community is the Mission Street Merchants Association headed by tavern owner (this is our day for tavern owners) Vince Merlo. At times the group has become critical of the cooperation of the city government, but at their latest meeting Merlo was among the first to thank the city for helping them get temporary parking on Hillcrest street while PG&E is digging Mission street.

Courses at George Washington School ranged from remedial reading and arithmetic to mammals and arts and crafts, Principal Fred Schweickhardt said.

Alligator Eats Way Out of S.S.F. Home

The Joseph Ciardella family of 211 Mayfair Avenue, South San Francisco recently had their home-hunting problems solved for them by Marine World in Redwood City when their pet alligator, which had outgrown eating worms was transferred to surroundings more in keeping with his size.

Their master and feeder, Wayne Ciardella, 18, was altogether enthusiastic about their going, but the parents were the prime movers in having the scaly pets go.

"Boy do they grow fast," Mrs. Ciardella exclaimed. She recalled the little nine-inch babies. After years of care one had grown to four feet and the other to three and one half feet.

To feed them, Wayne and his 11-year-old brother Don would fling live bait, chicken parts and other scraps toward the jaws of the beasts.

Mrs. Ciardella recounted two experiences of the alligators escaping from their pen and having the run of the house. Both times the family was out.

The last time Wayne took the 'gators out of their pens he had to tie their snouts. Mrs. Ciardella suddenly had visions of her children's limbs disappearing. She decided it was time for them to go.

Along with the alligators, the Marine World keeper also was given the family's snapping turtles.

"I guess my son goes in for those strange kinds of things. I didn't do too much looking at them. I don't enjoy them," she said.

'Mattress' Full of Surprises

By SAMUEL CHANDLER
Daly City Librarian

Last week the lights dimmed in the little theatre at Serramonte High School and a handful of youngsters stepped forward to present the play, "Once Upon a Mattress."

Sam Chandler

Directed by Ron Wells, a student at Skyline College, "Once Upon a Mattress" is the first of two plays that represent the repetoire of the Daly City Summer Music Theatre which is part of the summer program of the Daly City Recreation, Parks, and Maintenance Department.

"Once Upon a Mattress" was full of surprises. Mike Urrutia projected himself as the ministrel beyond this reviewer's expectation. Kathy Lindsay, dainty and attractive, handled the part of Lady Larkin with the skill one would expect of a girl several years older. Director Wells proved equal to every challange. His actors stood in the right places and spoke their parts as though they had been coached by a veteran.

As the King Jeff Wilber, although very young for such a part, was a pleasure to watch; so was Susan Bryant as Princess Winnifred. MarJanne Pearson was right for the part of Queen Aggravain. Jim Wells as Prince Dauntless and Carl Kostolefsky as the Wizard grimaced and mugged through the evening to the delight of the audience. Dennis Ullom as Sir Harry; Glenn Dodson as the jester along with the chorus of ladies in waiting and knights of the realm added to an evening of pleasant entertainment.

Special mention must be made of the orchestra. Under the baton of Howard Loeffler, it brought together six musicians of varying skill and experience to play the overtures and accompany the singers.

As a second production the Daly City Summer Music Theatre will present, "The Frivolous Flapper" with a cast including Roseanne Regal, Carl Kostolefsky, Glenn Dodson, Yvonne Sanchez, Sandy McDonald, Al Bauer and Gina Zito, all bright young stars from the Daly City area.

Bob Boyd, another Skyline College student, will be the director. Without a doubt Bob Boyd is the busiest young man in the Daly City area, and one of the most dedicated drama and music students.

"The Frivolous Flapper" will be played six times, August 19, 20, 21 and August 26, 27, 28 — curtain time is 8 p.m. An evening that will recall the "roaring twenties" is promised.

By attending these plays North County residents have an opportunity to see young people participating in an activity that is the anthesis of the youth riots and the drug orgies that command many inches of the newsprint.

Let the people of Daly City fill every seat in the little theatre — Some fine young people deserve it.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASELEY

Childhood poisoning is a silent epidemic in the United States. Its victims are the small children between the ages of one and six who pick up and eat the leadtainted paint and plaster chips which peel from the walls and ceilings of their homes. Lead-based paint popular for interior use between World War II, particularly in the large, elegant homes of the wealthy. Many of these buildings are now the dilapidated tenements of the cities, and, it is in these areas where lead poisoning cases are concentrated.

A child who daily eats a few small leaded chips no larger than the size of an adult's thumb for about three months or longer, can develop clinical symptoms of lead poisoning. The ultimate result can be cerebral palsy, death, blindness, kidney impairment and brain damage.

Lead poisoning is not a disease limited to the older inner cities. In the past ten years, cases of lead poisoning have been reported in 26 different States.

ABE LINCOLN
By Margaret Forbes and Pat Mannina

Don't be surprised if you see watermelons walking around Abe Lincoln School instead of people!!! Twenty-five children devoured three huge watermelons in our contest.

Winners in the seven and under division were Patrick Shockley and Karen Feil, first place, tie; Karen Tomblin and Brad Zatcoff, second and third. Brian Smith, Kathy Zomblin and Tracy Domingus finished out the field.

For ages eight and nine, Russell Tupac and Vance Blow captured first and second. Carol Tomblin was third and Patty Ryan fourth. For the 10 and 11 age group Maruice Pittman, Eli Hall and Douglas Pittman took first, second and third. Special prizes in this 15-person division went to Lori Silva and Tracy Blow, the only females participating.

Coming up are a carrom tourney and scavenger hunts, both on upcoming Fridays.

On the Lake Anza trip, winners of special prizes were Virginia and Barbara Miller, Tracy Blow, Doreen Bribnolia and Jackie Ryan.

MARCHBANKS PARK
By Larry Villaflor

A "well done" goes to Steven and Janice Haynes for their part as the wolf and Little Red Riding Hood. The carnival of drama was a success. Special thanks goes to Gerry Bescera, Ted Histo, the Giamcommini's (and their mom). Amooi's, Hennessey's, Martinez's.

Marchbank's table golf champion of the week was Jimmy Hennessey.

The main event of the week was the Friday cookout. Tom and his sisters and Tomela, Guy, Gerry, Lam, Chuckie and the coach had a great time.

NORTHRIDGE PARK
By Steve Becker

At Northridge Park the action was highlighted by an aggressive soccer game, a weekly carrom tournament, and a barbeque.

Greg Parks led a soccer crusade against Victor Siriammi, Don Parks, John Neligan and Ricky Pender that saw the "Crashers" defeat the "tenders" 4-3. Paul Infusino and his talented brother Norman were instrumental on the "crashers" offensive drives.

In the carrom tournament, John Neligan defeated his brother Pat as Stanley Nakamura easily handled Ricky "Dennis" Pender. In the championship game, Stanley came from behind to defeat John Neligan.

Hamburger, hot dogs, and even steak was served at the cook-out on Wednesday.

OLYMPIC
By Leslie Pambrini

Olympia playground was an exciting place on bike and cookout day. Olympia and Our Lady of Mercy Playgrounds joined forces and competed for awards in the bike decorating and bike racing contests. Olympia was victorious in the bike decorating competitions. Helen Boltman and Laura Lune took third place honors. Dean O'Connor also proved to be the fastest bike racer at Olympia.

OUR LADY OF MERCY
By Kathy Curry

A barbeque was among the events at Our Lady of Mercy. Olympia joined in on the fun with Leslie Fambrini leading bargang. The first contest was for best decorated bike. The winners: Grand prize, Mary Feeley and Gerald McFadden; first place, Dick and Brad Galliani; second place, John Feeley and Ted Curry; third place, Helen Boltman and Laura Luna; fourth place, Kathy Cunnie.

The winners of the races were Kary Feeley, John Pappas, Helen Boltman for the slowest race and Nolan Apostle, Eric Herzag, Bill Kennedy for the 10-speed race, Alana Modena, John Pappas, Dick Galliani for the fastest race, and John Pappas, Alana Modena, Dean O'Connor for the Grand Race.

Michelle Modena won the prize for consuming the most cookies.

PALISADES PARK
By Ron Corotpassi

Last week marked the midway point of Palisades Park summer program, and was highlighted by bicycle races for 7-10 year olds.

In the 10-year-old division, competition was very exciting.

Dave Widtfeldt jumped to an early lead, but his position was continuously challenged through the 10-lap race by Glen Coddington. Although Glen came very near to taking the lead, he was forced to settle with second place while Willie Ellis finished third.

The atmosphere of the 7-year-old division wasn't as competitive, since David Piper dominated the entire race. Finishing second and third were Mark Barro and Alfonso Zolla, respectively.

In the continuing weekly tetherball tournament Frank Helm is retaining his lead, but Tony Tsougarakis is challenging that position.

PANORAMA SCHOOL
By Mike Macia

Panorama School has been holding a cookout every Friday this summer. Chief tire builders last week for the hot dogs and hamburger roast were Steve Matson and Nick Petras.

Also having a good time roasting hot dogs and marshmallows were Rhondel Petras, Brigid Becker, Earl Becker, George Sotas, Dave Belusci, and Frank Puccetti.

Panorama's High School Softball team has lost its first two league games, but hopes to make its move now with the good hitting and fielding of Steve Barnes, Brian Gavigan, Bill Perkins, Mike Gradwhol, Dave Belusci, George Sotos, and Todd Bendt.

VISTA MAR
By Joel Carrara

After weeks of preliminary slamming and trickery, the Vista Mars Ping-pong Tournament got under way. Top contenders in the Senior Bracket are Rich (the Marauder) Dela Cruz, Dave (Duffy) Faxier, Bill Hurley, Jerry Mitchell and Jim Murphy. In the Intermediate Bracket, Chris Laing and Mike Adami head the list.

In the Junior Flight, Roger Homer seems a favorite.

In the continuing Strike-out League, Stove Roche and Jim Murphy defeated Chris Laing and Jim Theuner, 6-3, the margin coming in the last inning on three walks and three straight smash singles.

Appaloosas Make Debut at Race Meet

By GARRY NIVER

Bay Area horse racing aficiandos are being treated to a unique brand of horse racing at the San Mateo Conty Fair and Floral Fiesta, which opened Monday.

For the first time, the spotted and helter skelter running Appaloosa breed will make a racing appearance. Already a proven success at the Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton and the Sonoma County Fair in Santa Rosa, the spotted breed will compete in the first race each day, according to racing secretary Charles Dougherty.

The appys are set apart from other breeds of horses by their colorful coat patterns, white around the eyes, striped hoofs and mottled skin. Also, don't expect them to run in a straight line once they hit the home turn as they have been known to fan out in all directions.

According to equine historians, the breed got its start in North America around 1600 when the Spanish shipped goods and horses to Mexico.

From there they evolved into a very durable type which could negotiate the rugged terrain of the Idaho, Montana and eastern Washington areas. Naturally, they became a favorite of the Indians, most notably the Nez Perce tribe.

Appaloosas were introduced to parimutuel wagering in 1962. That year there were four appy races carded in the United States, with purses totalling $14,700.

Last year there were 171 races for the spotted horses in nine states, with the purses totalling $173,560. There will be 12 races, one a day, at the San Mateo County Fair.

While the Appaloosas might be new, one of their leading riders is a familiar face.

Ageless Jack Robinson, who came out of hibernation in late May to ride the quarter horse meet at Bay Meadows, has adapted to the Appaloosa style of riding with an uncanny agility.

The popular rider, who has ridden stakes winners at every race track in the west, including Del Mar and Santa Anita, is the only jockey on the fair wheel who is ranked in the top ten of all three divisions of racing —appaloosa, quarter horse and thoroughbreds.

The 44 year-old resident of Pleasanton, who did some long range commuting between the fair circuit and Los Alamitos in Southern California earlier this season, is rated second in the appaloosa standings and first in the quarter horse standings.

"I don't care what I ride," stated Robinson, "just so it gets me to the winner's circle.

Racing will be conducted on a six-day per week basis, with post time set for 1 p.m. The agenda will include one appaloosa race, a pair of quarter horse races and nine thoroughbred events.

Turner in Forfeit Win Over the AAA

Turner Ford ended the season on a winning note with a forfeit cifica Adult basketball league.

The Jo's finished the season with a (11-1) record and an 88-56 dumping of the Question Marks. Ron Beall and Dave Stevens led the winners with 15 and 17 points respectively. Bob Spinosa paced the losers with 14 points.

Don Moritsky and Bob With popped for 16 points apiece as Kerri's Coffee Shop rolled over the cellar bound Pioneers 64-53. Mike Deviloo was the leading scorer in the game with 17 points for the Pioneers.

Teams With Proven Hitters More Secure

By LE PACINI
Post Columnist

Pacini Baseball Theory No. 179-B: Teams loaded with proven hitters have a more secure future than teams loaded with proven pitchers. (Ideally, of course, it is best of all to be loaded with proven hitters AND pitchers.)

Common sense dictates this theory. It is simply easier for a hitter to stay healthy than a pitcher. Pitching arms are fragile implements performing unnatural motions under unusual stress. They can go quickly and never return. Sure, hitters can lose their eye-sight and their reactions and something of the timing, but scuh losses are generally very gradual, and the smart hitters will thus have time to learn how to adjust — or maybe just buy a pair of eye glasses.

Bad arms usually come suddenly, allowing no adjustment period, if, indeed, the pitcher can ever again throw well enough even to get the ball up to the plate Even if his arm does gain some of its old zip back, the pitcher may not get the opportunity to display a potential for readjustment. Baseball teams need pitching NOW, and there is always a big turnover of hurlers.

Even when a hitter does lose it all, he is still generally capable of swinging a bat, and any man swinging a bat, especially if he has power (NO hitter, except from disease and-or old, old age, ever loses his natural power), is dangerous He's bound to get lucky occasionally, get by on instinct here and there and do just enough to make a manager remember how great he was, and to perhaps wait just a little longer before swinging the ax. But when a pitcher has a bad arm, he isn't going to suddenly throw a lucky fast ball or two like he used to. His infirmities are much more obvious and dramatic than a hitter's.

A team with proven hitters, therefore, is more stable, easier to build on than a team depending on "proven" pitchers. In hitting, cream always rises to the top. In pitching, sometimes there is suddenly no cream at all.

Take, for instance, the mythical team that has on its roster Roberto Clemente, Hank Aaron, Matty Alou and Pete Rose, but has weak pitching. The brains NOW that all four of those hitters are going to hit between .310-.320, and hit maybe 60 homers between them.

THEY KNOW THEY can afford to gamble one of their big hitters for a top pitcher, because even with three of the big four left, they'll still score enough runs. But say a team has on its pitching staff a big four of Denny McLain, Luis Tiant, Dave Boswell and Jim Maloney.

McLain has won 55 games in the last two seasons; Maloney has won 134 major league games, twice having won 20; last year Tiant was 20-9 and looked like another Juan Marichal, and Boswell was 20-12.

McLain has won 55 games in the last two seasons; Maloney has won 134 major league games, twice having won 20; last year Tiant was 20-9 and looked like another Juan Marichal, and Boswell was 20-12.

So the manager figures he's crazy to risk even one of these guys for a hitter, as bad as he may need one, because with that pitching, he just may not need a hitter. So next year McLain goes goofy and finishes 3-5, and Maloney, Boswell and Tiant hurt their arms and have a combined 12-28 record.

Sure, the example given is extreme, and in point of fact, not all of those pitchers went suddenly sour in the same year in real life. We did that for, as they say, dramatic effect. But the point is that there have been pitching staffs which have gone almost as suddenly (The Yankees, for instance, in 1965), while we don't know of any team in the history of baseball which suddenly had three or four outstanding hitters suffer bad seasons simultaneously.

Hitting, in short, is a more natural bodily function that throwing (do you want to bet that man first protected himself—after running, of course—by hitting the enemy with a club rather than throwing a rock at it?), and therefore more predictable.

SPEAKING OF HITTING, you may have noticed of late that Chris Speier's batting average has been dropping. This has been attributed to the fact that he's been around the circuit enough, now, for the old pros to know how to pitch to him, and to tiredness. The former undoubtedly has something to do with it, and we believe the latter has even more to do with it.

It may be more than mere coincidence, however, that Speier's most serious downward spiral began when Willie McCovey left the lineup, necessitating hot-swinging Bobby Bonds to be moved down in the order to take advantage of his power, and Speier to be moved up to the leadoff spot.

Although the responsibility of the leadoff slot as compared to batting seventh could apply the pressure to a lot of rookies, we doubt that that is a valid point in Speier's case, because he seems to thrive on pressure. What we do believe the new spot in the lineup has done to Speier, however, is change his batting style.

Speier is admittedly a bad ball hitter, and also admits the need in the leadoff spot of getting on base anyway possible. That includes getting on via the free pass, and bad ball hitters don't get freebies by swinging at pitches off the plate.

What most impressed us earlier about Speier's hitting style was his willingness to attack the ball, be aggressive with that bat, even if it meant getting a hit, occasionally, off a bad pitch. Rarely, earlier, was Speier going down with the bat on his shoulder. Lately, we notice, he has been much more reluctant to pull the trigger, has become a more defensive hitter. He has been going down with the bat on his shoulder — not a lot, but more often.

Ironically, in letting the "bad" balls goes by, Speier may be alloing the good hits to go.

ANOTHER ROOKIE, or near rookie (he is technically in his second year) who has us worried is Vida Blue. Many are comparing him with Sandy Koufax, but aside from the fact that they are both very hard throwing left-handers, there is no comparison. We're not talking about talent, but about chronology.

Blue is a sensation, apparently has it all at age 21 (had it at age 20, if you count his no hitter and one hitter at the tag end of last season). When Koufax was 21, he had a 5-4 record with a 3.89 ERA The year before that, he was 2-4 with a 4.88. Koufax didn't have his first good season until he was 25 (18-13, 3.52), his first great season until he was 27 (25-5, 1.88).

Koufax matured late as a pitcher, which may have been a blessing, because if he hadn't, his arm might not have held up long enocgh for even the shortened career he did manage.HHad he been succssful, thus pitching more at an earlir age, his arm may have been arthritic, or just plain thrown out, by the time he was 25.

There is a baseball myth that southpaw pitchers develop late, inspired, we imagine, by Lefty Grove, who wasn't effective until he was, like Koufax, 27. But there have been others besides Grove and Koufax. One who immediately comes to mind is Mike McCormick, who was with the Giants when he was 17, but didn't have a big season until he was 28, when in 1967 he won the National League Cy Young Award with a 22-10 record. So there may be something to the myth.

Blue is throwing a lot of innings for a 21-year-old; not only pitching often, but completing almost every game, which, ironically, could eventually work against him. Despite the vigor and robustness of youth, the outward appearance of indestructability, most athletes do not in fact reach their peak physically until their middle or late 20s, and that goes especially for pitchers because of that delicate machinery we mentioned earlier, the pitching arm.

Note that many managers will allow their lambs to throw only so many pitches when they are in their late teens and early 20s, and then remove them from the game, regardless of the inning And think of the 20-21 year old sensations in just recent years (true, not any of them nearly as sensational as Blue), who are now only faint memories because their arms went bad in their second or third year.

We just hope that Blue isn't being rushed along too fast in the natural zeal anyone might have to see what kind of a fantastic one-year record is in that fabulous arm, and how many people it can draw.

TAG ENDS: Bert Cole of San Mateo celebrated his 73rd birthday on July 1 (we're not too good on meeting deadlines), and we congratulate him. Cole, you may remember, was the subject of a series of columns we did a few years back when he talked about his days with the Seals, Detroit, Cleveland and the White Sox, playing for and with Ty Cobb and against Babe Ruth. It was one of the most enjoyable pieces we've ever done. . . . And Walter Mails has retired as commissioner of San Francisco Little League baseball. "Too much politics," says Walter, in his usually demure manner.

NELL NORTON

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

As we open the food sections of various publications, we are greeted with new and different recipes for entrees. It seems test kitchens are always busy with chicken, meat and fish.

A picture of a dessert in all it's delightful, delicious (and fattening) splendor makes us give up our calorie counting and give the recipe a try.

I'm always happy to find some ways to serve vegetables that are different and tasty. Thinking along these lines I want to offer some recipes for zucchini.

ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE

2 pounds sliced, cooked zucchini
2 eggs well beaten
½ cup bread crumbs
3 tablespoons oil
salt and pepper
cup grated yellow cheese

Cook and drain the zucchini well. Mash and mix with the two, well beaten, eggs. Fold in the half cup bread crumbs and three tablespoons oil. Salt and pepper to taste. Rub a casserole dish with garlic and then grease well. Pour in the zucchini mixture and sprinkle with the fourth cup grated yellow cheese. Bake in 300-degree oven for one hour.

This recipe combines zucchini with corn to make a delicious casserole.

ZUCCHINI-CORN CASSEROLE

1 pound small zucchini
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
2 Tablespoons oil
1 can cream-style corn, No. 303
2 eggs, well-beaten
one-third cup grated Cheddar cheese
½ teaspoon salt
one-eighth teaspoon pepper
A pinch rosemary

Wash and remove stems from one pound small zucchini. Slice thin and cook until tender in boiling, salted water. Drain well. Saute the one chopped onion, half clove minced garlic, in the two tablespoons oil. Add the sauted onion and garlic to the drained zucchini. Blend in the can of cream style corn and the two well-beaten eggs. Next add the one-third cup cheese, half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon peppr and a healthy pinch of rosemary. Mix and pour into well greased two-quart casserole. Set in pan of hot water and bake in 350-degree oven for 45 minutes to one hour; or until firm. Serves 6

ZUCCHINI SCALLOP

4 Tablespoons butter or margarine
1 small onion, chopped
4 large zucchini
2 tomatoes, large
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
Pepper to taste
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

Melt two tablespoons margarine in baking dish. Reserve 2 tablespoons of margrine. Sprinkle the one chopped onion over the melted margarine. Pare and halve zucchini and quarter each piece (8 pieces). Slice each tomato into eight wedges and arrange zucchini and tomatoes over onion. Combine the two teaspoons sugar, one teaspoon salt, fourth teaspoon oregano and pepper; sprinkle over vegetables. Dot with the two remaining tablespoons margarine. Cover. Bake in 350-degree oven for one hour. Sprinkle with the two tablespoons Parmesan cheese just before serving. Serves 4 to 6

Omelet From a Package

The egg in its natural state has always been pretty much of a convenience food, but now one farm - through - finished - product producer has gone nature one better.

Being introduced locally are Spread Eagle Farm Foods' "Fresh 'N Ready Omelets" frozen in serving-size packets, easy to store for months and ready-seasoned for use in a variety of egg dishes from breakfast to midnight snack.

Each omelet portion contains three whole eggs and fresh milk. There's a plain variety which the cook can use "as is" or improvise on and the following seasoned omelets: Western — with hickory smoked meats, peppers, onion and parsley; Bacon — with a touch of parsley; Ham — hickory smoked ham and spices; Cheese — containing bleu and cheddar cheeses; Onion — this one is recommended for the base of a quick pizza, and Mushroom.

The omelets can be scrambled, baked or used in recipes that call for eggs. Calorie count is under 200 per portion, except for the bacon omelette which adds up to 226.

For variations on the plain omelet, Spread Eagle Farm kitchens suggest topping of tomato or cream sauce to which chunks of cooked meat, fish or vegetable have been added. Or add sour cream and crisp grated radish, cucumber or carrot.

For dessert, spread jelly or preserves on a plain omelet, sprinkle with powdered sugar and garnish with salted nuts.

SKILLET DINNER

The convenience food list continues to grow. Hunt-Wesson announces two additions to its Skillet Dinner repertoire. The latest, which go together with a pound of ground beef within 10 minutes to serve a family of four, are Skillet Barbecue and Skillet Pizzeria.

The Barbecue mix includes navy and kidney beans, barbecue sauce and cornbread topping.

Pizzeria, as its name implies, incorporates tomato sauce, traditional Italian seasonings, special noodles and cheese topping.

All the Hunt-Wesson Skillet Dinners come with recipe suggestions on the packages, and the two newest check in at an average 35-40 cents per eight ounce serving.

Cherries in Salads and Desserts

Fresh sweet cherries are expected to be abundant in the western markets during the next several weeks, according to the United States Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

The producing states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Utah have increased sweet cherry production almost 8 per cent above last year's total and about 15 per cent over 1969 figures.

Try sweet cherries in these frosty dessert or salad ideas:

CHERRY JEWEL MOLD

- 1 3-oz. package cherry-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 cup canned pineapple tidbits
- ½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- ½ cup whipping cream
- 1 cup pitted, halved fresh sweet cherries
- ½ cup walnuts

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in cold water. Chill until thick but not set. Divide into two equal portions. Add drained pineapple and cheese to one portion. Whip cream; fold into pineapple mixture, blending well. Pour into a 1½ quart mild. Chill until set. Add cherries and walnuts to the second portion of gelatin mixture and pour over the thickened first layer. Chill until firm. Unmold, serve on lettuce for salad, or top with additional whipped cream for dessert. Makes 6 servings.

FROSTY CHERRY LOAF

- 1 8-oz. package cream cheese
- 1 cup sour cream
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1½ cups pitted, halved fresh sweet cherries
- 2 cups apricots, sliced (fresh or canned)
- 1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
- 2 cups miniature marshmallows

Soften cream cheese at room temperature; then beat until fluffy. Stir in sour cream, sugar, then fruits and marshmallows. Pour into an 8½ x 4½ x 2½-inch loaf pan. Freeze until firm. To serve, let stand a few minutes at room temperature then unmold. Serve inslices topped with additional cherries. Makes 8 servings.

Conserve Fruit for Winter

To capture some of the color and fresh flavor of apricots and peaches, try your hand at making a fruit butter or conserve. Both will add a touch of elegance to any meal. Homemade Apricot Butter or Peach Conserve also make excellent gifts.

The United States Department of Agriculture reports that fresh apricots are now in good supply in western markets, and fresh peaches also will be in good supply through August.

In making fruit butter or conserve, USDA says to choose hard-ripe, full-flavored fruits. A simple way to peel apricots or peaches is to cover them with boiling water; allow apricots to stand 30 seconds and peaches a full minute or longer. Then drain the fruit and put it immediately into cold running water for two minutes. This will help loosen the skins and make peeling easier.

APRICOT OR PEACH BUTTER
1½ quarts apricot or peach pulp
3 cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Paraffin

To prepare pulp, wash, peel, pit and crush the fruit. Cook the fruit until soft, adding only enough water to prevent sticking. Press through a sieve or food mill. Measure pulp. Add sugar; cook until thick, about 30 minutes. As mixture thickens, stir frequently to prevent sticking. Add lemon juice; pour into hot sterilized jars. Seal with ⅛-inch thickness of paraffin which has been melted over a very low heat or hot water. Makes 6 half-pints.

FOR SPICED BUTTER: Add 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves and a dash of allspice with the sugar.

APRICOT OR PEACH CONSERVE
3½ cups chopped, peeled apricots or peaches
1½ cups orange juice
Peel of ½ orange, finely shredded
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3¼ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ cup blanched, slivered almonds OR
¾ cup canned flaked coconut
Paraffin

Combine all ingredients except almonds or coconut. Cook to 9 degrees above the boiling point of water, or ntil thick, stirring constantly. Add almonds or coconut. Remove from heat. Skim off foam while stirring gently for 5 minutes. Ladle into hot sterilized jars. Seal at once with melted paraffin. Makes 5 half-pint jars.

Grapes Rise to the Top in Gelatin

In this unusual salad with the amusing name, "Sink and Swim," a new attribute of the seedless grape comes into focus: its buoyancy.

Grapes "swim" in the gelatin salad. They rise to the top over heavy fruit, such as pears, which "sink" to the bottom. Result: a pretty two-layer combination fruit salad in one easy step.

Low in calories (a whole pound, for instance, contains only 270 calories), grapes also are low in sodium so they're recommended for many special diets.

SINK AND SWIM SALAD
2 pkgs. (3 oz. each) lime flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1½ cups cold water
1-third cup Creme de Menthe
3 small ripe pears, halved, peeled and cored
2½ cups California seedless grapes

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and Creme de Menthe. Chill until slightly thickened. Arrange pear halves in deep 9-inch round cake pan (or use 9x9x3½-inch square pan). Pour gelatin over pears and pat grapes firmly over surface. Chill firm. Unmold and cut into 5 or 6 wedges. Serve with thinned mayonnaise, if desired.

Meaty Diets

Calories in beef cuts such as round steak, sirloin tip roast and T-bone steak, and in pork cuts such as loin roast, chops, tenderloin and baked ham, total under 250 calories per 3½-ounce serving of cooked lean meat.

Generous amounts of protein as provided by meat are important in weight reduction meals. A minimum of 7 ounces cooked lean meat daily is recommended by nutrition authorities.

Teacher Action Urged

The new president of the 175,000-member California Teachers Association today urged teachers to step up their political activity and negotiating power so that they have the clout to provide quality education.

L. Gordon Bittle, at 35 the youngest president in the 108-year history of the CTA, said in a formal statement in Burlingame that if teachers are to be held accountable for the achievement of their pupils "they must also be provided with the educational tools, parental and political support needed to make accountability more than a catchword.

"If not, teachers will be forced to use their power to assure the quality education being demanded of them," he said.

Bittle accused the state of letting per pupil support from 6th to 26th since Governor Reagan took office. He blamed both the Reagan Administration and the public for its frequent rejection of school tax and bond issues.

Bittle, a sixth grade teacher in Antioch, said teachers must have more control over their own profession.

"Teachers are accused of not policing their own ranks and of hiding behind tenure" he asserted in his statement "yet the legislature has not seen fit to give us policing power. Nor do we have the power to set standards for entry into teaching. We are the only profession not given this power . . ."

Bittle warned that teachers will be militant in demanding improvements in salary and working conditions this fall. He also warned of much resistance among school boards to teachers negotiating.

He spoke of "a confrontation of power" and a collision course between teachers and boards, but said he did not know if there would be a series of strikes in the schools.

The CTA also pointed out that a new report by the National Education Association disclosed that California had dropped from above to below the national average in total support for public schools, percentage of state and local revenue spent on public education, and per pupil expenditures.

D.C. Honors Symphony

The week of July 26 has been proclaimed California Youth Symphony Week by Daly City Mayor Bernard Lycett.

He asked citizens of his community to continue their support and encouragement of those youth invited to participate in the 1971 International Festival at Lausanne, Switzerland during Youth Week.

The California Youth Symphony will travel to Czechoslovakia to present three concerts—the first of their kind from the West to perform behind the Iron Curtain.

The group of 105 musicians consists of young people from the bay area, including Serramonte High School.

Sunday Morning Special Breakfast At Nick's

Driving down to the coast for a day away from the daily grind? Breakfast at Nick's, located along the rolling surf of Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, will help put you in a happy frame of mind. Breakfast is served from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., so you don't have to be in any rush. There's a great rundown of menu suggestions, among which are omelettes (served any way you like them — with ham, mushrooms, cheese, or try the Chef's special); Steak and Eggs; Hot Cakes; French Toast. All are served with French fries or hash brown potatoes. If you're dropping in for lunch, try the Abalone Sandwich on French bread. There are salads aplenty, plus soups, pastas and numerous dinner entrees (full course dinners served daily from 2 p.m.) . . . Persuasive Mexican dishes served at The Papagayo Room, another Nick Gust restaurant enterprise located along the coast of Pacifica at Rockaway Beach, include such house specialties as Tostada de Polo (crisp Tortilla piled high with beans, lettuce, chicken, tomatoes; garnished with cheese, avocado and chile chipotie) and Arroz con Pollo (half chicken cooked with Mexican style rice).

GINA AND THE TRACKS OF TIME head up the nightly entertainment, Tuesdays through Saturdays, in the Sportsman's Lounge at Hillsdale Inn. This well known local group, with previous stints at Lake Tahoe and in San Francisco, features vocalist Gina Rossi, her husband Rich on organ, Mike Kosloff on drums and Jim O'Kane on base.

Magazine Spread Due For The Shirt Tail

Bill Murray, Northern California editor of Patterson's Magazine, the Bible of the beverage industry, visited the Shirt Tail restaurant in Palo Alto. He was taking pictures and gathering information for a major story in his publication. In addition to interviewing Owner Adrian "Red" Stickney, he spoke to executives of Haas Brothers, distributors of Tanqueray and Boords gin, as well as B & J Scotch, all of which are poured at the Shirt Tail. Joe Coppola, general manager, and Paul "Shep" Shepard, supervisor of Haas, joined them in lunch. Murray called the Shirt Tail "a fantastically beautiful restaurant". . . The secret to the unqualified success of Stuart Anderson's Black Angus Steak Houses of San Mateo, San Jose and the Pacific Northwest is their famous "one-price." Every cut of steak —New York, T-Bone, Filet Mignon and Tenderloin en Brochette is the same price — $3.95. With it you receive the Black Angus Salad Bowl, Washington baked potato and toasted ranch bread delicately flavored with garlic, butter, sauce and Parmesan cheese. Try it!

Finocchio's New Entertainer

A newcomer to the local nitery scene is Estuardo, a talented singer-dancer from Mexico who is appearing nightly at Finocchio's in San Francisco. He also joins in the Eve-ttes chorus line, which presents opening and closing Las Vegas-type extravaganzas . . . Enrico Romano not only specializes in pizzas at his Romano's restaurant (located in Pacifica's picturesque Rockaway Beach), but full-course Italian dinners as well. He sees that only the finest of ingredients go into the special sauces which adorn his meats and pastas . . . Organist Margie Brandon, whose name is up in lights at Clancy's, was visited by some beautiful people from Alaska who promised her faithfully that upon their return they would put her name up in the "Northern Lights" for the whole state to see. Margie believes in miracles and was all in favor of the wonderful advertising in the middle of the Aurora Borealis . . . Lots of easy parking for dinner guests at Lew Lehr's Steak House, on Steiner Street, just off Lombard in San Francisco's Marina District. There's a big, city-owned garage around the block on Pierce Street, with low meter rates before 6 p.m., and free parking evenings

Montara Beach "Playground"

Montara Beach, a natural playground for those who like to romp in the surf or sprawl on the sand languidly, is the setting for Frank Torres restaurant-hotel, overlooking a scenic stretch of Pacific coast just south of Devil's Slide on Coast Highway One. Operated by Frank and Fannie Torres, this popular spot is the gathering place for those in search of superb dining and a marvelous view of nature at her finest. . . . After-hours entertainment is a new policy recently inaugurated at Deejay's, an elegant nitery in Belmont. Besides featuring live entertainment and dancing seven nights a week, the club is open after hours from 2 a.m. to 5 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, featuring The Sound Barrier, a bundle-of-energy group having as much fun performing as the audience has in watching them. . . . Liquid Sunshine, the new band at The Mesa, formerly drew record crowds to the Squeeze-Inn. The group, in their third week at the San Bruno nitery, performs only three nights a week — Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

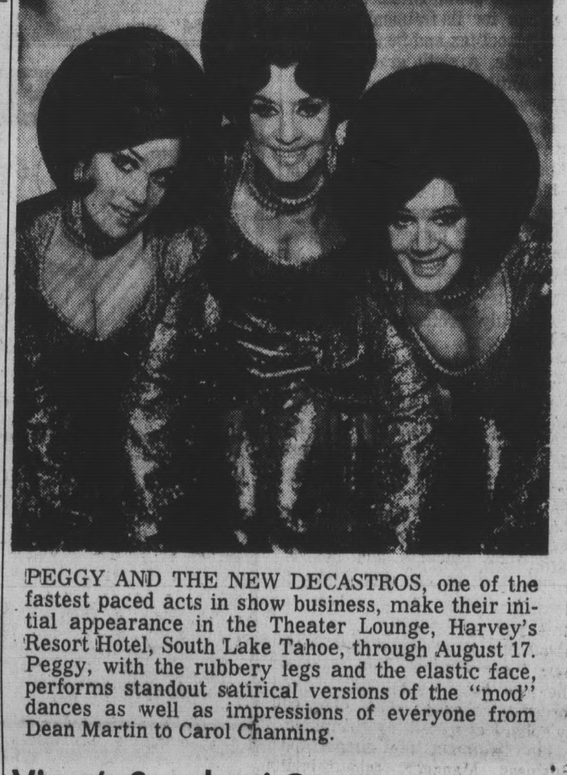
Tailored New Outfits For Phil Lehr's Employees

Phil Lehr is on the receiving end of a flock of compliments for the stunning new summer costumes he designed for waiters and waitresses at the Steakery, in downtown San Francisco. Beautifully tailored in white, with gold accents and a bright red sash, they rival any airline design . . You will find authentic touches of Old English atmosphere at Atherton's fashionable Lord Fletcher Inn. The menu offers a variety of British entrees. In the lounge, you can enjoy such traditional beverages as London's famous Red Barrel Ale and Pims Cups . . . Besides elegant dining in the Encore room at Rodeway Inn, one of South San Francisco's newest additions along Airport Strip, Lori English and the Future Trend appear Tuesdays through Saturdays in the Golden Rooster Lounge. Lori, the pert songstress who headlines the show, is soon to have a new record release . . . The Ercoli brothers have added something new at their Leaning Tower restaurant, South San Francisco. It's a new wine list offering 56 different kinds and six types of fine vintages. P.S.: The prices are most reasonable.



PEGGY AND THE NEW DECASTROS, one of the fastest paced acts in show business, make their initial appearance in the Theater Lounge, Harvey's Resort Hotel, South Lake Tahoe, through August 17. Peggy, with the rubbery legs and the elastic face, performs standout satirical versions of the "mod" dances as well as impressions of everyone from Dean Martin to Carol Channing.

Vince's Spaghetti Caruso

If you like spaghetti and would like to try it a special way, then order Spaghetti Caruso or Spaghetti Napoletana when dining at Vince's Italian and Sea Foods restaurant. But you must allow 20 minutes extra for preparation. Other dishes which require extra time and are well worth a large appetite consideration is Baked Lasagne, Lobster Newburg, Veal Scaloppini and Sweetbreads Saute. See Vince's wine menu for your favorite wines. Wines by the glass — dry wines, sweet wines, imported sherry . . . A "Place for Steak and Prime Rib As You Like It" is how Scotty Campbell's won its reputation for pleasing particular appetites. Entrees are served with onion soup or tossed green salad (choice of dressing), oven warm garlic bread, and baked potato (sour cream and chives). If you're still in the mind for dessert, Scotty Campbell's Cheese Pie served with brandied cherries should fill the bill . . . Sea-Steak (a petit filet broiled and served companion to a broiled Australian lobster tail with drawn butter) and Morro Bay Abalone Steak (with crisp almondine sauce) are classic dishes on the continental menu at The Moonraker, a nautical restaurant with a spectacular view of the Pacific Ocean at Rockaway Beach.

Jerry Dyke's Impersonations

Jerry Dyke, the singer-guitarist currently appearing at Holiday Inn, Belmont, has an uncanny knack for impersonations. You name it, from Nat King Cole to Dean Martin. Jerry can do it. He also does Don Ho and a great Jerry Lewis. Close your eyes and listen to Jerry's "Born to Lose," and you'd swear it was Dean Martin. Jerry and Company entertain nightly, Wednesdays through Sundays, in the luxurious Red Fox Lounge . . . Dinner tip: Broiled Sirloin en Brochette (tender beef skewered and broiled with green pepper, pineapple and mushrooms , as served in the Stagecoach Room at Stickneys of San Mateo. And if your sweet tooth is as demanding as your Bright Lighter's, you'll finish your meal with one of the tantalizing pastries from Stickney's own bakery . . . A bonus worth $11 in value is being given to anyone headed for King's Castle, North Lake Tahoe, when booked through C-More Travels. The round-trip bus fare is $13 a person, with daily departures from San Francisco's Greyhound Depot at 6:45 p.m.

Ben Franklin Jumbo Drinks

Jumbo cocktails, poured by your own hand, are now available (10 a.m. to 2 p.m.) in the Greenwillow dining room and the Club Seville lounge at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. Included are gimlets, martinis and manhattans, served by the pitcher for just 75 cents per order. Another attraction here is Mary Anne Christensen, a pretty cocktail waitress who is usually attired in Hot Pants. She's been employed at this distinguished downtown San Mateo hotel for over 14 years, and seems to know almost everyone . . . Park Avenue Tours, with four Bay Area offices to serve you, now has a Summer Drive-up package to Reno offering over $37 in refunds per person. This is a two-night package, and the refund consists of cash, food credit, cocktails and Keno tickets . . . A. Sabella's, a famous San Francisco restaurant located at Fisherman's Wharf, is a three-story mecca for fine dining. An elevator sweeps you to the main dining area on the top level, where the view of the Wharf's bustling activities has always been a major tourist attraction.

Mateo JC Finances in Good Condition

By JOHN HORGAN

In spite of all the negative publicity afforded the San Mateo Junior College District in the past seven months, the indications are strong that the district is actually in far better shape than one might have guessed.

Comparisons with its two neighboring junior college districts to the north and south — the San Francisco Community College District and the Foothill Community College District respectively — reveal that San Mateo, as of now, has attained a kind of enviable security which actually makes this three-campus system a virtual model for other districts across the country.

While it is true that the district has its share of problems, they are not of great magnitude and, with proper attention, most of them can and will be handled with dispatch.

Other JC districts are not so lucky.

A number of factors hamper all junior colleges. Things like a steady lowering of state aid and the not-so-subtle re-emphasis on the JC's because of budget cuts at the state college and university levels have combined to put all community college districts in a considerable bind.

But San Mateo, through judicious financial management, has managed to elude many of the pitfalls experienced by some of its peers.

In San Francisco, the district there is really in an embryonic state because it is only in the last 18 months that it has existed as a separate entity with a separate budget. Until the past school year, the City College of San Francisco was a part of the city's troubled unified school district.

Now, the JC district and its $25 million budget are being managed as a unit. Its governing board is still the same as the unified school district's but the board at least deals separately with community college matters. Granted, the board doesn't take up too much of its time with JC matters (it took about one and one-half hours to pass the preliminary budget for the new fiscal year), but it is forced to consider the community college as something special.

Jun Iwamoto, the district's Business Manager, said this week that the board's wearing of three hats for the county schools, the unified district and the community college makes it extremely difficult for the board members to participate in the work of the JC, particularly since the unified district has been under such pressure to desegregate its schools.

Because of this lack of time on the part of the board members, Iwamoto would like to see the community college run by a new and separate board.

Although the San Francisco JC wont face a tax crush for another two to three years, according to Iwamoto, the district is still faced with some rather nagging problems.

For one thing, the district is faced with a steadily rising enrollment (it was up to almost 24,000 students last year) and the fact that there is really no suitable site for another campus.

Currently, San Francisco has only one campus. It is the largest single JC campus in the state. Obviously, it is crammed to overflowing.

Though the district has managed to cut back on the percentage of administrators even as the student populace rises, it is still a fact of life in San Francisco that administrators have tenure according to the city's charter, a situation unique to San Francisco.

Iwamoto said the community college "stacks up well" when compared to the swollen administrative condition of the unified district, however.

Last year, San Francisco spent about $942 to educate each full-time student and the tax rate was just over 68 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Iwamoto said he expects the tax rate to decline to about 67.8 cents per $100 in the new fiscal year. It may go down even further if the city's assessed valuation increases significantly, he said. The $25 million figure is more than $4½ million more than last year.

Iwamoto said he doesn't feel his district will have to go to the people to ask for a tax increase for a while. But it's coming soon, he said.

In the Foothill district, a two-campus system, Business Manager Bill Cutler said the time has come for a tax increase.

If the district doesn't get the support of the people in the northern half of the Santa Clara Valley the district faces bankruptcy, Cutler said.

Right now, Foothill's two schools, De Anza and Foothill, contain about 13,000 students. The budget is almost $12 million and the tax rate last year was 82.4 cents per $100 assessed valuation. It cost the district just over $862 per full-time student in 1970-71, he said.

But the district is far from trouble-free.

In its latest budgetary proposal, the administration actually reduced teachers' salaries by nearly four per cent although their pension plan was slightly increased. This fall, the district will have to come back to the people for a tax increase.

Foothill tried for a five-cent increase in 1967 but it failed. The district, in seeking an increase in its basic operating funds, is in much the same condition that San Mateo was in earlier this year when it too was faced with a critical tax election.

When that 11-cent override was approved overwhelmingly by the people of the county, the opinion of many in the district is that the district's financial condition has been virtually assured for the next decade.

The Board of Trustees, reacting with caution even after the victory in March, has so far determined to use only 2.7 cents of that 11 cents for the new $21.3 million budget.

The total tax rate has now been pegged at just under 69 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Last year, according to District Public Information Director John Hubbard, it cost San Mateo almost $973 to educate each full-time student. A total of 26,000 students attended the district's three schools last year.

• The difference in the cost per student factor among the three districts indicates the difference in the kinds of programs offered. At Foothill and De Anza there is only minimal emphasis on expensive vocational - technical programs while both San Francisco and the three San Mateo schools have rather extensive vocational - technical programs.

To complete the major building program for the San Mateo district, only one more large multi-purpose structure at Skyline College in San Bruno needs to be built.

"Once that is done," District Business Manager Matteo Fasanaro said, "Then we're over the hill."

It is expected that all funds needed for the construction of the North County facility will be forthcoming before the end of the year.

Fasanaro, one of the men primarily responsible for the financial condition of the district, said foresight and vision by the district administration, particularly by former College of San Mateo President Dr. Julio Bortolazzo, have brought the county's JC system to where it is today.

Sometimes it helps to just look around a bit.

Theft of Bike Is Charged

William A. Sharp, 18, 616 Third Avenue, San Bruno, was arrested by Burlingame police this past weekend on charges of bashing in a bike shop's window and stealing a $200 bicycle.

Sharp was being held under $1250 bail for allegedly burglarizing the Burlingame Cyclery, 1111 Burlingame Avenue.

Police said he was identified as the person who slammed a steel cycle rack through the Cyclery's window, who lifted a 10-speed bike through the shattered glass, and then rode it to San Bruno.

He was to be arraigned this morning in Central District Judicial Court on a charge of burglary.
